WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four American millionaires managed to avoid paying a penny in federal taxes in one recent year, according to Internal Revenue Service data released by a member of Congress.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, said in a House speech Tuesday that seven of the millionaires had a total adjusted gross income of $17,783,008, an average of $2.54 million per person.

"There were also 17 (other) millionaires who avoided any tax after calculating their tax deductions and credits," according to IRS information for 1973, Vanik said. He did not identify the millionaires or explain the tactics they had used.

In addition, there were "54 individuals with adjusted gross incomes of between $500,000 and $1 million who paid no federal income tax and 292 individuals with adjusted gross income of between $200,000 and $500,000 who paid no individual income tax."

Vanik, a member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, also said that 15 major oil companies paid foreign governments about eight times as much tax as they did to the United States in 1974.

He said "it is appalling to note" that the companies listed payments of $9,554,112,000 to foreign countries, but only a reported $1,309,136,000 in U.S. federal income taxes.

Vanik identified the 15 oil companies as Occidental, Texaco, Mobil, Gulf, Atlantic Richfield, Standard of Ohio, Getty, Ashland, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana, Union of California, Sun, Phillips, Continental and Cities Service.

He said two other firms, Exxon and Shell, were omitted from the survey "because information provided to the SEC (Securities Exchange Commission) made computations impossible."

Vanik spoke as the Ways and Means Committee moved Tuesday to end farm tax shelters used by wealthy city dwellers to virtually escape paying taxes.

Black and white students enter school together

BOSTON (AP) — Black and white pupils for the first time were allowed today to enter South Boston High School together as the city's court-ordered busing program continued without incident.

Under heavy police protection, school buses made their early morning runs to the schools and early indications were that school attendance would increase further today.

The number of black pupils who stepped from the yellow buses in white Irish South Boston was up about 20 over the 147 who attended classes Tuesday.

Returning tax payments made without penalty

Delinquent tax payments mailed to the county treasurer's office without a penalty charge included are being sent back to taxpayers, according to Treasurer Sharon U. Thompson.

Checks being mailed into her office are running five to one without the one per cent penalty added. The returned checks are accompanied by a notice to the taxpayer indicating the correct tax due with the penalty charge.

The late charge went into effect Tuesday, after Mrs. Thompson allowed three days for late mail delivery. "I gave taxpayers the benefit of the doubt through Monday," Mrs. Thompson said, "but from now on all late payments must include the penalty."

The second installment of real estate taxes was due Sept. 4. Throughout September the one per cent penalty remains in effect. An additional one per cent penalty is added for each consecutive month that payment is withheld.

Office employees are readying certified letters to be mailed to all delinquent taxpayers. Although Mrs. Thompson did not have a dollar figure representing delinquent accounts, she did say their sum was "substantial."

China Township to vote on liquor referendum

China Township, which includes Franklin Grove and which went dry in 1947 on a 158 to 51 vote, will include a referendum question, probably at the next township election, whether the township should remain dry.

Fred Kesselring, supervisor of the township and member of the County Board, Tuesday said the operator of the Sunset Inn, a new eating establishment located at U.S. 52 and U.S. 30, has asked him about getting a liquor license.

Board to share suit cost

By ROBERT H. NELLIS
The Lee County Board agreed to pay up to $750 toward the costs of a court suit which may be filed against the State of Illinois asking the State Department of Public Aid be required to pay the same amount to not-for-profit nursing homes as it does to proprietary homes for public aid recipients who are being cared for in the homes.

Lowell Beggs, District 1, chairman Health and Welfare Committee, said if the state would raise its pay for public aid residents to the level to which is paid to proprietary nursing homes, the county nursing home income would be increased by $2,700 per month.

Merle Topper, District 1, chairman Road and Bridge Committee, reported Richard Wandell, of the Illinois Department of Transportation, told the committee the state is holding up on establishing bicycle paths because Atty. Gen. William J. Scott has ruled it may be possible to hold the department liable for injuries by cyclists using the path.

According to Topper, Wandell also told the committee the state has not appropriated any money to set up bike paths.

Ronald Brandau, county superintendent of highways, said plans have been dropped to create a bike path from Dixon to Lowell Park because of Scott's ruling and because requirements are the path must be at least 20 feet removed from a road carrying motorized traffic.

Topper announced Brandau has sent a request to the Finance Committee to allocate $20,000 from revenue sharing funds for the purchase of radio equipment to be used in highway department vehicular equipment.

Ogle Board agrees to buy foster home

OREGON — Ogle County Board members Tuesday gave formal approval to enter into a purchase contract to establish a foster home in Rochelle.

The measure, stalled in recent months due to zoning technicalities was given the go-ahead by Rochelle City Council members Monday night.

Cost of the county-owned facility was set at $59,500. In addition, board members approved a resolution calling for completion of "necessary renovations" to bring the building up to city building code standards. Estimated cost of the renovations was set at $2,700.

In the formal agreement, the board stipulated that no more than 10 children be allowed at the facility at any one time; also that no minor adjudicated delinquent be placed in the home.

The board adopted a holiday calendar for county employees containing 13 1/2 non-working days. Included in the 1976 calendar are: Jan. 1, New Year's Day; Jan. 15, Martin Luther King Day; Feb. 12, Lincoln's Birthday; Jan. 16, Washington's Birthday; May 31, Memorial Day; July 5, Independence Day; Sept. 6, Labor Day; Oct. 11, Columbus Day; Nov. 11, Veterans Day; Nov. 25 and 26, Thanksgiving Holiday; Dec. 24, Christmas Eve; and Dec. 31 New Year's Eve. The board additionally approved a half-day holiday on Good Friday.

Six zoning petitions were approved as recommended by the Ogle County Zoning Board of Appeals. They included a petition from Melvin Nefsted, Kings, to rezone 1,229 acres from Ag-1 to Ag-2 and for establishment of a 15-acre agricultural-lime and rock quarry.

Words, not wheat, causing higher food prices

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Higher food prices resulting from U.S. grain sales to Russia are caused by controversy and concern over the deals and not by any threat to American supplies.

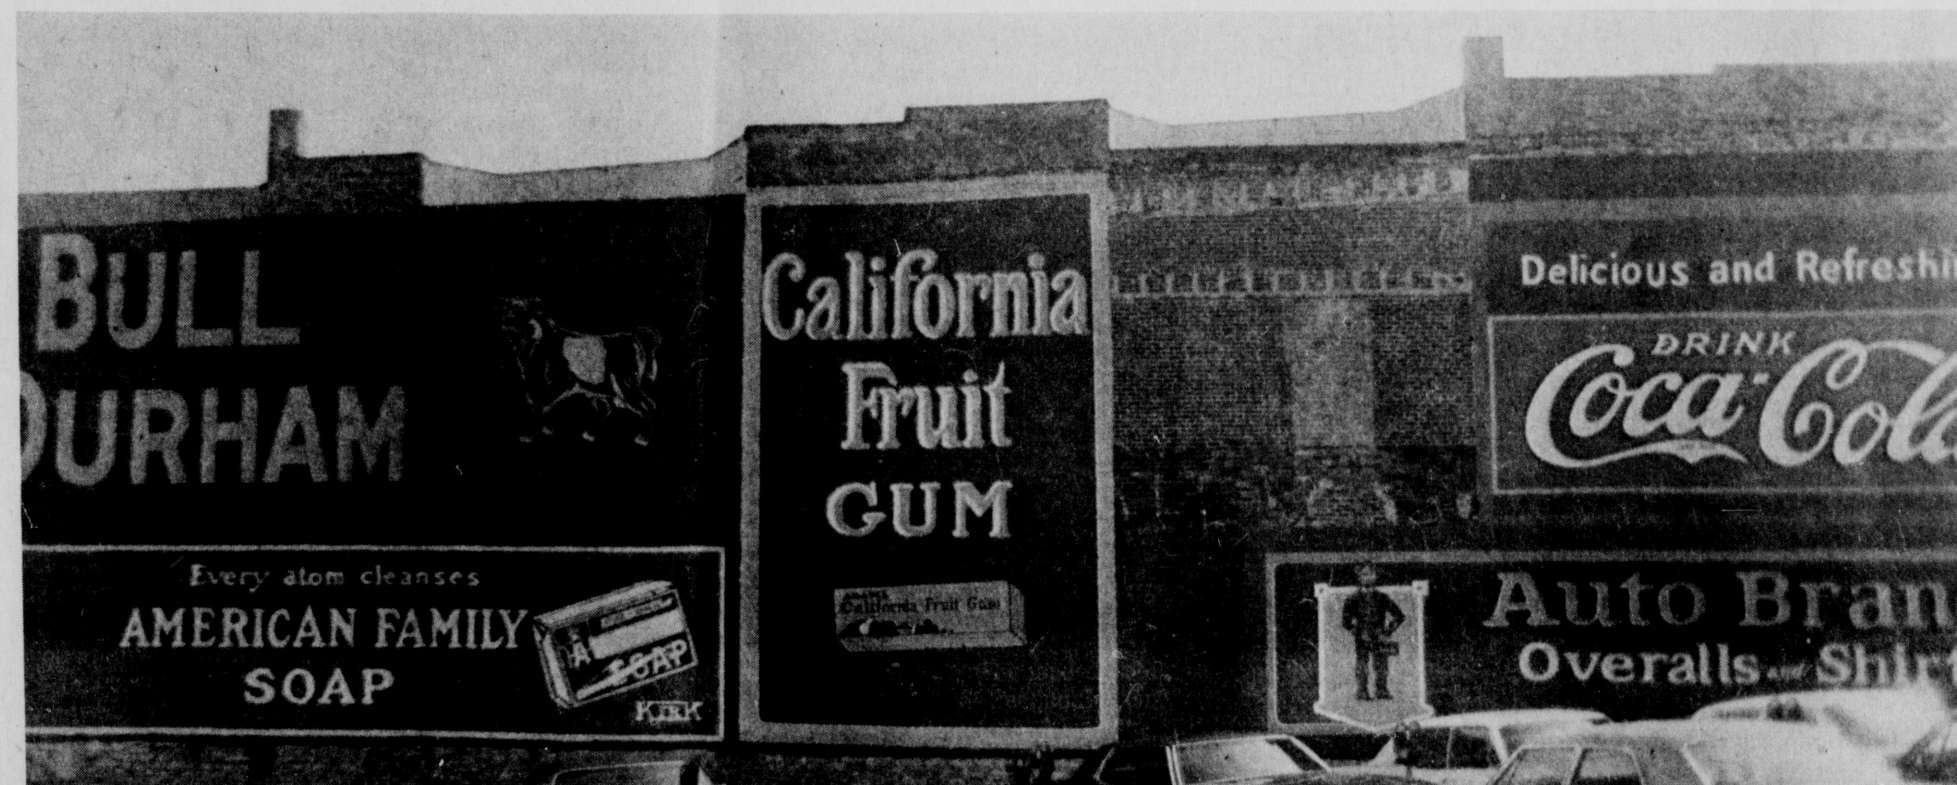

The problem is words, not wheat. U.S. farmers are producing three times as much wheat as the country will use this year. U.S. firms have sold the Russians only one-third of the wheat that is expected to be left over at the end of the year after domestic consumption and regular exports.

The controversy eased a bit Tuesday when AFL-CIO President George Meany, acting after a meeting with President Ford, told dock workers to resume loading Soviet-bound grain voluntarily.

Ford told Meany he could make no promises about what would happen to food prices.

But he extended until mid-October a moratorium on new grain sales to Russia and said he would try to work out a long-term agreement to minimize the impact of any future sales.

GOP convention to be largest in party's history

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican party has issued the formal call for the largest convention in its history, with nearly 5,000 delegates and alternates to meet in Kansas City, Mo., next summer.

The first formal step in convening the GOP's bicentennial-year presidential convention was taken Tuesday at the close of a three-day meeting of the Republican National Committee during which Kansas City was chosen as the host city.

There will be at least 2,259 delegates, 911 more than attended the 1972 convention in Miami Beach, Fla. There will be an equal number of alternates seated in Kansas City's Kemper Sports Arena when the convention opens Aug. 16, 1976.

Under the party's complex bonus system, there could be as many as four additional delegates.

English visit recalls WW II

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

LONDON—This is an isle sorely tried. You catch the sense of crisis crackling unseen like electricity in the air.

Few here will attempt to answer the question: What is going to happen to England?

It is like dropping a stone into a dark well and listening for the splash to tell you how deep it is. But I do not believe it can be as dark as it seems.

I have lived through a great deal of heroism in this land. A very great deal, indeed.

I was working here as a newspaperman throughout the ghastly Nazi air raids when the Nazi Luftwaffe lost its horrible try for an all-out kill of England. On May 10, 1941, a Sunday and a day I will never forget, Hitler sent 1,200 bombers over London. That night the Nazi radio announced that the city ceased to exist. The Nazis were mistaken.

Then, later, I also lived through the "buzz bomb" attacks of the V-1s and V-2s. Somehow you found these even worse because you felt that the horrible test had passed.

The abhorred Nazi power stretched from the Atlantic to the boundaries of central Asia and from the Arctic to Egypt. The Nazi swastika was hoisted over the entire Mediterranean east to the outskirts of Alexandria. All of Western and Northern Europe fell, but not England.

Said Prime Minister Winston Churchill: "Those who ask what we are fighting for would soon find out if we stopped."

The Britain that defied the Nazis was the Britain of David Low's famous cartoon: "If necessary, alone." It was necessary, and it was alone.

I was also with the British at the battle of El Alamein.

Churchill called this British victory in Egypt's western desert "The Hinge of Fate." "Before Alamein," he said, "we never had a victory. After Alamein, we never had a defeat."

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, in turn, reports in "The Rommel Papers": "This battle probably represents the turning point in the whole vast struggle in World War II."

The battlefield stands at the gate to Alexandria and Cairo. And while I was spared and lived through the battle of El Alamein, vast cemeteries on the coastal road from Alexandria are dedicated to the British, German and Italian dead.

The battle was fought on a 50-mile front. The Mediterranean stood on one flank; the great, deep, straight-down Qattara Depression on the other. The problem's dimensions echoed poet Siegfried Sasson: "Armageddon is too immense for my understanding."

The date was Oct. 23, 1942. There was a ghostly, star-lit dawn. The whirling sand that cut and bit in the searing wind only looked like sand. Actually, it was pulverized sea shells from the prehistoric bottom of the Mediterranean.

The searing wind broke the silence in the desert outpost where I waited. The terrain underneath was as hard as a slab of marble. I remember a scorpion slithering through the brittle sand. Suddenly, as noble as the classic heroism of St. George, the Highland Pipers stood up. Their bagpipes rang with the sound of a gallant song: "It's a Long Way to Tipperary."

The dead-tired British troops rose out of their trenches. They began the assault that never stopped until, years later, they reached Berlin.

Courage is a private thing. Perhaps it can be defined as doing what your conscience tells you has to be done, no matter how hard or painful or dangerous, because you believe that it is right.

The glory of England does not lie in her flag. It lies in the justice and quiet independence of her average citizen. There has never been a good cause, no matter how distant, which has not found Englishmen among its courageous champions.

If his country fails in its duty or its honesty, the Englishman stands and says so, and the government he attacks will defend him. It will, in fact, protect him against the very politicians he so often criticizes and whom he frequently surpasses in courage and intelligence.

A trip by charter bus to Rockford Wednesday has been arranged for members of the South Dixon Community Club and their friends. The bus will leave Loveland Community House at 9 a.m.

Players on Murphy's Pony League championship baseball team attended the White Sox-Baltimore Oriole game in Chicago. The team sponsor, Mel Murphy, treated the boys to a smorgasbord dinner en route home. They were accompanied by Ernie Michels and Paul E. Vogel.

25 YEARS AGO

Coach Sam Owens' Dixon Dukes opened up last night in the first scrimmage of the season under the lights. The Dukes are in the midst of rapid preparation for the opening game of the season at Lyons High School, Clinton, Iowa, next Friday night.

The Reynolds Wire-Chicago Rebel baseball game will be played Sunday at Reynolds Field. Time of the game is 2:30 p.m. Nelson Potter will be on the mound for the Dixon Club. The Rebels are one of the best teams in the Chicago area. They play good amateur competitions from the surrounding cities and carry a fine record into the Dixon encounter.

50 YEARS AGO

Two Dixon molar extractors, who have been spending several days in the vicinity of Rhineland, Wis., returned home late yesterday afternoon with proof sufficient to shoot at they were equally capable of extracting the big ones from the northern Wisconsin lakes. Each of the dentists succeeded in landing big ones, one weighing 32 and another 35 pounds.

Football fans are clamoring for something which will insure a continuance of the game in Dixon again this season. Fanciers of this class of sport have signified their intention on volunteering to support, in more than one way, another team this fall. There are many things that have to be accomplished before a schedule can be successfully opened in Dixon, and the local fans are looking forward to some word which will insure football again this season.

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Baruch Korff, the sedulous Connecticut rabbi who led the "people's defense" of Richard Nixon's presidency, is still irked at the bum's rush given his champion in the mass media. Consequently he has formed what he calls the U.S. Citizens' Congress, whose principal cause has been the issuance of discouraging remarks about America's press.

Because few have taken note of the rabbi's efforts, least of all the media, Korff is apparently ready to escalate the campaign. He has written a "voluntary code of ethics" for journalists which he intends to distribute for public consideration.

Congress especially will be hustled on the matter. Korff is hoping to solicit powerful support, possibly even special committee hearings, for what he believes to be a most urgent but mostly ignored national problem.

Primarily because his prejudices conflict with his objectivity concerning the subject, the prognosis for Korff's success is not good. But this does not diminish the merits, nor the necessity of his project. The question of press ethics is at least as material to democracy as that of, say, political ethics; but while the latter is ever a subject for public investigation, the former continues to remain outside the idea of accountability.

The media is controversial, it is suspicious, but there is this notion it is also inviolate. It is time to alter the myth. The Constitution does not guarantee the media the right to isolate itself from public scrutiny and advice.

Public's right to know about press

No doubt an energetic probe would be of some humiliation for journalism, for few in the business are entirely clean of sin. In the name of the people's right to know, many of us have made practices of activities we condemn when done in any other pursuit.

The two Washington Post reporters who broke open the Watergate case, noble as their effort was, did so by compromising some public law. They used a friend in the phone company, for one thing, to acquire records which violated some citizens' rights to privacy. This reporting aid, by the way, is not uncommon; some Washington reporters have sources in the IRS, as example, who will on request, in violation of U.S. rules, pass on private data.

But if the legal parameters of some reporting tactics are in sore need of public inspection, the moral boundaries, almost unlimited sometimes, should be of even greater popular concern. Sports writers often receive money and other favors from the management of teams they cover. Political writers who become overly friendly with office holders frequently protect them from adverse publicity. Beat reporters tend to write favorably of those they cover for fear of losing access and while some news people tread lightly on news sources, others, usually those with considerable influence, may force news developments by use of such tools as threats and blackmail.

An example of the latter point is in order here. And the ongoing CIA story is as good as any. At least some of the reports of agency abuse that have appeared over the past months have been gathered by an ageless reporting technique that employs both deceit and muscle: A newsman approaches an unwilling source, falsely says he has the evidence he wants but needs an admission by the source; then he says his paper (or television network) will protect the source if he cooperates, and smear his reputation if he does not.

Illegal? No. Immoral? Maybe. In any event it seems clear the public should be aware of how the news is sometimes collected.

Already, of course, the public is skeptical, if largely ignorant, of news collection ethics. At a Washington convention of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce early this year, when delegates were asked to list American traditions most important to them, the tradition of press freedom was posted dead last. Not a little of this cynicism is a result of the media's historic reluctance to admit its errors or lift its shades.

Perhaps Rabbi Korff's "code of ethics" is not the answer to building press credibility, such codes even now collect dust in newsrooms everywhere. But it seems unlikely the public will forever benignly accept the media insistence that the right to know does not include the right to know about the media.

Land reform tied to economic growth

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is growing evidence U.S. economic aid is largely wasted in those underdeveloped countries where farmers don't own their own land.

Yet, strangely, it is precisely for such countries that the bulk of individual U.S. aid is currently earmarked—lands like India, Pakistan and Bangladesh.

Moreover, there is no evidence that pumping multi-millions in assistance to such nations encourages effective change. Unlike trends in the U.S., Japan, Taiwan and South Korea, the rich get richer and the poor poorer, and infant mortality remains at alarmingly high rates.

Our aid to countries lacking land reform seems to fail, even when we directly and indirectly pump in millions for dams, roads, electricity, currency support, cooperatives and for agricultural improvements—where land reform is missing.

Some of the countries with the worst showing, in fact, are those in which, with fanfare, we introduced major new strains of rice—as a part of the green revolution. The escalation in oil prices, blamed by many, applied to most underdeveloped countries and therefore does not explain away the startling contrasts between those which made major strides and those which did not.

Listen to Dr. Roy Prosterman, of the University of Washington, who, with colleagues, has recently completed a comparative study of land reform, infant mortality and other factors which, statistically at least, correlate with increasing agricultural productivity and self-sufficiency in underdeveloped countries:

"... technology, without motivation, is not enough, and the tenant farmers and landless laborers of countries like India and the Philippines have shown—in every single country, every one—that they will not make the vital on-farm improvements, such as new drainage and water systems and land levelling, that are crucial to producing a good first crop and absolutely prerequisite to producing any second or third annual crop. Non-owners will not make these or other essential agricultural improvements."

According to Prosterman's data, the three nations in East Asia which have done best in increasing rice production in the past quarter century—Japan, South Korea and Taiwan—ended their landlord systems before 1953.

By contrast, increases in rice output per acre in India, Pakistan and the Philippines, where there has been little or no progress in land reform—have been a third to a fourth as great.

The wheat story is the same. Mexico, which redistributed land effectively years back, more than tripled output per acre between 1951 and 1974. Pakistan and India, despite large amounts of agricultural aid and technical assistance, did only a fourth as well.

In passing, Prosterman notes that collectivized rice farming in North Vietnam has done barely better than the landlord system of India or the Philippines in productivity increases. And China has been outpaced by Japan, South Korea and Taiwan in improved rice yields. Mexico has far outpaced the collectivized Chinese wheat farms.

Interestingly, the decline in infant mortality is most significant in those lands where the farmer owns his land or, according to local custom, has the equivalent of ownership.

In Mexico, infant mortality was reduced from 105 per thousand the first year of life, to 61. In Taiwan, the reduction was from 71 deaths per thousand to 18, in Japan from 67 to 12, in Barbados from 152 to 31, in Jamaica from 90 to 31, in Trinidad and Tobago from 71 to 18.

The rate in India was 139 per 1,000 in 1951-61. It was unchanged in 1972-73.

By DON OAKLEY

Not since "Dewey Defeats Truman" in 1948 have the samplers of public opinion come under so much fire and their polling methods been so questioned as they have of late, especially in the vital areas of environmentalism and consumerism.

A case in point is a widely reported survey by the Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N.Y., which found, based on interviews of 2,038 people of voting age, that 75 per cent of all Americans oppose the creation of an independent federal Consumer Protection Agency. According to the poll, the public is "generally satisfied" with the consumer protection efforts of existing government agencies.

The survey has been vigorously attacked by supporters of the legislation which would set up the super-agency, who claim that its questions were slanted and loaded. They also point out that it was commissioned by the Business Roundtable, a New York-based association of business firms which, along with various local chambers of commerce, has been actively publicizing the findings.

Now comes another survey that is sure to be controversial, this one by the prestigious Louis Harris & Associates.

"Almost two-thirds of the American people favor the building of more nuclear plants in the United States," is the major finding of this poll, based on a cross-section of 1,537 households around the country. Specifically, 63 per cent are said to be in favor, 19 per cent opposed and 18 per cent not sure.

One survey does not settle an issue

In addition, it was determined that "the public endorses nuclear power plants more strongly than its political, business and environmental leaders and the regulators of public utilities believe they do." Some 201 of these people were also polled.

The Harris survey was commissioned by Ebasco Industries, Inc., a major engineering, construction and consulting firm involved in the building of power plants of all types.

The news media that routinely report the findings of the constant stream of public opinion polls, and particularly editorial writers who may base their comments on them, bear a responsibility for ascertaining the accuracy of their sources of information—though how they can always do this without conducting surveys of their own is not clear.

But while many people are suspicious of sweeping generalities extrapolated from the responses of a few thousand people out of 210 million, the scientific validity of modern poll taking methods has been pretty well upheld over the years. (Even the famous Dewey fumble was not so much the consequence of faulty polling as of the fact that the pollsters stopped interviewing voters too early in the election campaign.)

What it seems to boil down to is the credibility of the pollsters. Credibility is their most valuable asset, their stock in trade. They would be treading in dangerous waters were they to begin compromising their impartiality in order to tell the sponsor of a particular poll what he wants to hear—or even be suspected of doing so.

Yet just as there is an unresolved question as to whether television coverage of early election results in the East influences voting in the West, there is the very real possibility that public opinion polls may go beyond their legitimate informational function by influencing or prejudicing the opinions of people who read about them—a kind of self-fulfilling, snowball effect.

Certainly it would be foolhardy to let the adoption or nonadoption of national policies and legislation in matters crucial to the public interest be governed solely by the results of this one survey or that one.

Perhaps what we need to help in evaluating the public opinion poll is the application of a golden rule, to the effect that one survey does not an issue settle nor a consensus establish. As useful as its "input" is in telling us what Americans want or don't want, are worried about or are hopeful about, it tells only part of the story.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS
Advancing down the Hudson River as part of a grand design for conquering the northern colonies, the British army of Gen. John Burgoyne clashed in Sept. 1777 with the American army of Gen. Horatio Gates. The Battle of Saratoga and the resulting surrender of Burgoyne's army wrecked the British campaign. More important, it was the turning point of the Revolution. Not only did the colonists draw new hope at a critical moment when defeat would have been devastating, but the victory also had a decisive influence on negotiations in Europe for an alliance with France. OREGON — New officers for the Oregon Chamber of Commerce were elected at the last meeting with Bob Brown, president; Fred Smith vice president and Homer Selover, secretary-treasurer. Board members will be Warren Shetter, Jeff Basler, Byron Hutchins, Hollie Guist and Homer Selover.

The next meeting will be the annual dinner meeting Sept. 30 at 7 p.m., in the VFW Club.

The members voted to give the Etnyre Middle School Marching Band $50 to help finance their trip to the parade in Springfield next year again for the State Fair. President Reed Johnson praised the young students highly for their performance there this year.

Sharon Schultz has been hired as the new Chamber of Commerce Welcome lady to contact new families moving into the Oregon School District. Mrs. George Kinn who has been serving in this capacity for the last two years, has resigned.

Selover was instructed to sent letters of appreciation to the Oregon VFW and the Oregon Foundry for the help given the Chamber with the downtown flags. It was reported that 63 attended the breakfast honoring Ed and Thelma Zumdahl who have retired after being in business as owners and operators of the Gamble Store in Oregon. The breakfast was held at Maxson Manor and the Chamber presented the Zumdahls with a monetary gift after the dinner.

Announcement was made of Sidewalk Days to be held Saturday in Oregon and contacts with Gene Lebwick will answer all questions anyone wished to ask.

Kloth-Ruchotzke wed

MR. AND MRS. KIM RUCHOTZKE

MT. MORRIS—Miss Margo Kloth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kloth, Mt. Morris, and Kim Ruchotzke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Ruchotzke, Sabula, Iowa, exchanged nuptial vows recently at the Trinity Lutheran Church.

The Rev. James Scorgie, pastor at the Methodist Church in Mt. Morris, and the Rev. Jack Heband, pastor at Sabula Calvary Lutheran Church, conducted the evening ceremony. Misses Donna and Debbie Horst were vocalists while Mrs. Dave Fitcher accompanied them at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of embroidered Alencon lace over silk organza. A matching Juliet cap secured her cathedral-length veil. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of pink Sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Miss Sue Grobe, Mt. Morris, was maid of honor, and was attired in a pink dotted swiss floor-length gown with a matching jacket. She wore a pink picture hat with ribbon and carried a white basket of pink and white daisies and green carnations.

Misses Marsha and Maria Kloth, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids and wore lime-green dotted swiss dress with a matching bow in her hair. She carried a white basket with daisies and carnations. Attending as ceremonial flower girl was Little Miss Kelly McGee, Mt. Morris, attired in a pink dotted swiss dress carrying a basket of pink rose petals. Each of the girls received necklaces, which were their gifts from the bride, Master Scott Rowland, Mt. Morris, was the ring-bearer.

A reception honoring the couple was held at the Mt. Morris VFW Club following the wedding ceremony. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Sally Landis, Rochele; Miss Peggy Dalaeker, Lanark; Mrs. Jeff Little and Mrs. Dennis Rowland, Mt. Morris; Mrs. Larry Johnson, Clinton, Iowa, and Miss Blenda Millhouse, Sterling.

Following their wedding trip to Six Flags in St. Louis, Mo., the couple has been residing in Sabula, Iowa. Mrs. Ruchotzke is a graduate of Mt. Morris High School and Rock Valley College, Rockford. Mr. Ruchotzke is a graduate of Sabula High School and Scott Community College, Davenport. He is employed at McEleneys Motors, Clinton, Iowa.

Two world travelers get together

By KAREN HEY

Esther Barton, retired principal of Lincoln School, made her first trip around the world in 1933. It was then in Peking, China, that she met Zinaida Oliver. The two have been friends since.

Zina, as Esther calls her, has been in Dixon for the past two weeks visiting Esther, whom she has not seen in 38 years. Zina explained that she and her writer-correspondent husband came to America for the first time in '37 and met Esther at the Chicago airport. Their stop-over was brief. The Chinese-Japanese war broke out and Zina and her husband had to hurry back to China, where he was director of the Reuters News Agency.

One recent afternoon, Zina, who now lives in Sydney, Australia, talked about her Russian heritage, her arrival in China and how she eventually became an Australian.

"Actually I knew very little of Russia," said Zina in her British-Russian accent. "I was born in Vladivostok, which is right next door to Japan, and went to school there."

In 1917 the revolution broke out. Her White Russian family, loyal to the Czar, fled from the Reds to Shanghai, China. Her father stayed behind and fought as a Cossack. Word came later that he had been killed.

She met and married her husband in Shanghai and moved to Peking. In 1939 the Chinese and Japanese were fighting. She left for that reason and went to Singapore to stay with friends, until '41 when the fighting advanced. "I boarded a 6,000-ton ship full of refugees bound for India. We travelled by night and hid during the day. Other convoys didn't make it to India, so the captain of our ship decided to head for Australia instead." When she got there she went to the Kodak Company for a job. "I told them they had to give me a job. I was hungry," she said. I got the job and worked in the darkroom and was paid $5.50 a week." She added, "you can do a lot of things when you have to." Zina takes her camera everywhere and, while in Sydney, the Dutch Public Relations people used her photos to raid Batavia and Singapore.

She finally returned to Singapore again in '45 to try to pick up her old life, but she was resented for helping British Intelligence. Before fleeing from Singapore, she had monitored Russian radio stations for them. She went back to Australia after only three months and continued her photography work.

She laughed and sighed at the same time, and said, "that's my life in glorious technicolor."

Zina and Esther will fly to Santa Fe, N.M. this week. Esther is going to show her friend her favorite place in the world, next to Dixon that is. The two share the same love for beauty and travel and "old anything" was how Zina put it.

About America, Zina said, "The American people are great. They love you to death, I just hope they let me out."

Make a will or the grabbers will move fast

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the gal whose sisters, aunts and cousins descended on her nether's house like a pack of vultures and picked the place clean hit very close to home. The writer signed herself "Can't stand Grabbers." Well—I hope your advice "MAKE A WILL" was heeded by all those nice people out there who just assume their belongings will go to the people they want to have them.

When my husband's darling mother died, his sister arrived first. She was grief-stricken.

For about 15 minutes. Then she pulled herself together and went through the house like a streak of lightning. When I walked into the bedroom to use the phone I saw drawers open and boxes strewn everywhere. The place looked as if it had been burglarized. I couldn't believe it.

When "sis" left she had all the jewelry, silver and every piece of art worth owning. She also had her name taped on the best pieces of furniture. "I'll send you some of Mother's nice

After the funeral, I received a dozen plastic hangers, a jar of cotton balls, some old clothes and a moth-eaten fur piece.

My husband adored his mother and so did our children. They don't have one thing worth keeping as a memento. Of course the poor darling never wrote a will—and she'd turn over in her grave if she knew what has happened.—Heartsick in Boston.

Dear Heartsick: Your letter says it far better than I could—but I'll make another attempt. MAKE A WILL. It's the only way to be sure your money and personal belongings will go to those you want to have them. Otherwise "The Grabbers" will move in fast.

Also, the attorney in charge of the estate should make certain nothing is removed from the house of the deceased until the will has been read.

Dear Ann Landers: I can't be alone in my misery. Please help us all.

My mother-in-law, for the third time this year, is coming to visit for two weeks. I could put up with her if she'd just be a guest. But the minute she arrives she begins to clean the house, rearrange the furniture and make suggestions on how to improve the looks of the place. ("Your kitchen needs new curtains. The bathrooms could use a coat of paint," etc.) She starts every sentence with, "Why don't you?"

Now she has started to interfere with the way I feed and dress our child. "He's not getting enough roughage. He needs vitamins. His room is too hot. His play clothes are tacky..."

I find myself getting nervous before each visit. By the time she leaves, I'm on tranquilizers and my husband and I aren't speaking. He says, "She's just trying to help." Get the picture?—Sign Me Berserk

Dear B.: One thing is certain—you will never change your mother-in-law, but you can change a few other things.

First: The frequency of her visits. Ask your doctor to inform your husband that his mother's visits are too taxing and should be cut to twice a year.

Second: When your M.I.L. makes suggestions, smile and say, "You're probably right. I'll think about it..." Then develop amnesia.

Third: If she wants to clean your house and rearrange the furniture—let her. Maybe she'll get a hernia.

Eggs for low-cost protein

Eggs are a good low-cost substitute for meat, reports Irene Downey, University of Illinois Extension food and nutrition specialist.

Eggs furnish good-quality protein, iron and vitamins. You can serve them for breakfast, lunch, dinner, and for nutritious snacks.

When buying eggs, remember the weight of a dozen eggs determines the size printed on the carton. A carton marked JUMBO weighs 30 ounces, one marked EXTRA LARGE weighs 27 ounces, and LARGE weighs 24 ounces. Egg cartons marked MEDIUM weigh 21 ounces, SMALL cartons weigh 18 ounces, and PEEWEE cartons 15 ounces.

Follow the rule of 7 when buying eggs. If there is less than 7 cents difference between sizes, the larger size is the better buy. If there is more than 7 cents difference between sizes, the smaller size is the better buy.

To retain flavor, tenderness and attractiveness, cook eggs at low to moderate temperature, Ms. Downey concludes. High temperature and overcooking toughen eggs and egg dishes and may cause curdling in custards and sauces.

The truth about bankruptcy

Tim Jones (not his real name) was earning $75,000 a year as an architect in the 1960s. Since the economy looked good, he invested a great deal of time and effort and money in designing two buildings. He borrowed about $100,000 from various banks and then, suddenly, the construction market plummeted. Nobody wanted his buildings; nobody even wanted the services of an architect. Jones' income fell to about $15,000 a year. He owed $150,000. He had no ability to pay so he went bankrupt.

Al Smith (not his real name) was a copywriter for an advertising firm. He was earning about $14,000 a year. Smith got married, rented an expensive apartment, bought a foreign sports car, two color TVs, new furniture and carried Master charge, BankAmericard, American Express and Diners' Club credit cards — all of which he used regularly. In less than one year, he owed so much money that he could only afford to spend $50 a week on food and transportation. His marriage began to fall apart.

Unlike Jones, Smith felt that given sufficient time, he could pay off his debts. But when creditors called late at night, threatening him, he began to think suicide was the only way out. Finally, Smith went to a lawyer who specialized in debtor-creditor problems. The lawyer suggested a "Chapter 13" — a legal maneuver by which the debtor goes to court, makes an agreement to live on a fixed budget and allocates the rest of his income to paying off creditors. The creditors agreed to stop harassing Smith, and in some cases to cut the debt a bit. Over a three-year period, Smith paid off all his debts.

James Chatz, a Chicago attorney who specializes in debtor-creditor problems and is a member of the Commercial Law League of America, takes a very realistic view about money problems. "Bankruptcy is built into the cost of goods," he says, meaning that the money people pay for goods covers the loss the company suffers when people buy but cannot pay. In other words the paying customers absorb the loss.

Chatz says that most people don't want to go bankrupt, that they feel morally obligated to pay for what they bought. In the case of Tim Jones, and other honest businessmen and professions who became bankrupt, Chatz notes, "They weren't responsible for the recession. They weren't thieves. They went into a business venture that failed. It happens. That's what the bankruptcy laws are for."

But then is bankruptcy the creditor's fault? No, says Chatz. "Almost everyone who goes bankrupt has some luxury items they had no business buying — as second car, a boat, motorcycles for the kids, a rented vacation home. What do they need it for?"

Chatz feels that deep financial indebtedness almost always triggers severe emotional problems. He would urge those in debt to remember that there are ways out of financial crises, be it bankruptcy, Chapter 13, or some other method. The paths to avoid are those which lead to deeper debts via high interest loans or illegal juice operations. The other road to avoid is the one of drink and despair which renders any rational ideas impossible.

Chatz believes that a lawyer who specializes in the debtor-creditor area — one who cares about his or her client, one who will spend the necessary hours pouring over bank statements, talking with, cajoling, even threatening tough creditors — can be the least costly way to lift the onerous burden of debts.

If you wish to find the names of qualified lawyers in your vicinity, call or write the Commercial Law League of America, 220 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill. 60606 phone, (312) 236-4942.

merchandise against their country in any part of the globe. This general detestation will increase, when almost every individual feels themselves pinched in their private circumstances, by the consequences of deterring the trade of America.

One would hardly think, that every gentleman in Hertfordshire, of 1000 l. a year, will lose in one article 500 l. a year, by the steps taken against Boston; yet it is so. To support the expense that will be incurred by the troops and ships sent to America, there must be a filling in the pound added next year to the land tax, which is 500 l. on 1000 l.

The disturbing the trade to Boston, will disturb the trade to all America; the merchants and planters, as well as the free-keepers and shop-keepers, are and will, by the nature of trade, be in debt to England; for influence, the people of New England buy all the fine cloth worth there, and all other luxuries, hardware, crockery, filks, linen, and a hundred other articles from England. The merchant here lends to his correspondent the value of 5000 l. or 10000 l. worth of goods of all kinds, for consumption of our English, and to furnish the Indians. The factor there sells for beef, pork, lumber, &c. to be delivered in their season, and twenty per cent. more is gained on the goods sold thus on credit, than on those sold for ready money. By the time these articles of provision and lumber are the merchants will not receive payment from America, and the people here suffer. The apprehension of this hath already had a severe effect; the merchants have not dared to send the usual orders to the great manufacturers for work.

These orders were credit, and as good as money; and the manufacturers set their people to work, and paid them daily, when the goods were bespoke, and they were sure of a vent; but these manufacturers cannot afford to make up and keep by them large quantities of goods, consequently their workmen are starving for want of employment. Every town, and every manufactory in the Kingdom, will feel the bad effects occasioned by these violent measures. When they all feel this, then all will cry for vengeance on the Thane, and Bourbonites, and the wretches siding under them. There is soon to be a new election for Parliament; if that it should be free and unopposed, the first step will be attempting the Thane behind the curtain, calling Barnard, Hutchinson, Oliver, &c. to justice, and hearing the people that have suffered in America.

Thank God! Lord Temple, Lord Camden, Lord Rockingham, Lord Sheburne, Mr. Wilkes, Mr. Swinburne, the Lord Mayor, Mr. Sheriff Sayre, Mr. Sheriff Lee, Mr. Rife Fuller, Mr. Burke, and many other patriots are yet alive, who have integrity and capacity to save the Kingdom from the danger the hundred of the puritanical rebels" be hanged.

Prime Minister Lord North didn't want bloody reprisals. He favored severe punishment but of a different nature. His first proposal was the Boston Port Bill.

Here was a more subtle way of striking at the rebels. The port of Boston would be closed to all shipping until payment was made for the destroyed tea. Lord North could picture merchants in other American towns scrambling for Boston's trade. Another appealing factor was the economy of the plan. Britons thought that a few regulars in Boston and four or five frigates in the harbor would do the job.

Although such prominent Englishmen as William Pitt and Edmund Burke argued against it in Parliament, the Boston Port Bill was enacted by a huge majority. It was to go into effect June 1, 1774.

To further emphasize Britain's determination to subdue rebellion in Massachusetts, General Thomas Gage (commander-in-chief of British forces in America) was appointed governor of the Bay Colony.

Parliament's angry mood resulted in the adoption of additional punitive measures. One, the Administration of Justice Act, permitted royal officials in America who might be charged with a capital offense to have their trials shifted to Britain.

Another very ominous measure was the Massachusetts Government Act, which virtually annulled the charter of the colony. The Council, previously elected by the House of Representatives, was to be appointed by the governor. A particularly infuriating part of this law forbade the holding of more than one town meeting a year except with the written consent of the governor.

What a blow to a time-honored institution of popular local government!

Other colonies, when they heard of these "Coercive" or "Intolerable" acts, asked fearfully, "Which of our institutions and liberties are safe from the wrath of Parliament?"

As might be expected, news of the Port bill brought forth many protests from the Massachusetts press. The Boston Evening Post (May 30, 1774) reported merchants' fears of "the calamities that are impending and will soon fall on this Metropolis." A Patriot in the Massachusetts Spy (June 2, 1774) thundered "that the Boston Port-Bill is now carrying into execution and that Boston is put into a greater distress, and is more insulted by an English armament than she ever was by a French or Spanish fleet."

The Sons of Liberty had sent Paul Revere off to Philadelphia to learn about the reaction of other colonies to the distress of Boston. His return brought news of general indignation throughout America.

Clementina Rind of Williamsburg, who had taken over her husband's Virginia Gazette after his death in 1773, called the Coercive Acts "despotic proceedings." At Charleston, Peter Timothy's South-Carolina Gazette came out June 13, 1774 in black mourning borders as it fumed against the Boston Port bill. "The Stamp Act, with all its ruinous consequences portended less evil to this Constitution than the present gathering storm... Rise just indignation! Rise patriotism! to the aid of our much injured country."

The cause of Boston and Massachusetts had become the cause of America. Lieutenant Governor John Penn of Pennsylvania wrote to London that the colonists everywhere look upon "the chastisement of... Boston to be purposely rigorous, and held up by way of intimidation to all America."

The colonists, who believed that Boston had gone too far in the Tea Party, now felt that Parliament had been too severe in its reaction. Almost overnight Bostonians had been made martyrs.

The closing of the port of Boston alarmed people all over America. Many newspapers carried angry protests against this severe punishment of Boston, and John Holt's New York Journal was one of them. Colonial need to work together is graphically shown in the device on Holt's masthead, "Unite or Die." The part of the Journal reproduced here shows a portion of a denunciation of the Boston Port Bill. (Courtesy, American Antiquarian Society.)

The reaction of most Britons to the Boston Tea Party was one of anger and disbelief. Britain had been patient with the colonists too long. William Pitt said that the Tea Party was "certainly criminal," and Dr. Samuel Johnson thought that Britain had taken too many insults from the Americans.

There were many colonists, too, who felt that the Bostonians had gone too far in destroying the property of the East India Company. Benjamin Franklin, for example, declared that the Boston Tea Party was "an act of violent injustice." Another view was expressed by James Rivington, who asserted in his New-York Gazetteer that Great Britain would not allow "a petty little province, the creature of our own hands the bubble of our own breath" to defy the mother country in this flagrant manner.

In England tempers flared. One outraged newspaper editor declared "all the Hancocks, and all the Sad-Cocks and sad dogs of Massachusetts Bay" had to be punished. Boston was called "a nest of rebels and hypocrites," which had committed "more atrocious acts of outrage than any other part of the Colonies."

One rapacious Englishman raved wildly in the Gazetteer and New Daily Advertiser of London: "It would be best to blow the town of BOSTON about the ears of its inhabitants, and to destroy that nest of LO-

CUSTS." Another savage suggestion was that "about one

LOSE FAT!

What a wonderful way to
The "MODEL-ETTS" way helps curb your appetite.

HELPS YOU LOSE THAT EXTRA WEIGHT
● NO CALORIE COUNTING!
● NO SPECIAL DIETS!
● NO EXERCISES!

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods. HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS.

These New York doctors discovered a food adjunct called "MODEL-ETTS." "Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your calorie intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

Before "Model-etts" was offered to you, it was tested clinically by the doctors on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found:

1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever.
2. 96% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight.

"Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjunct — not a drug.

So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

Mel Brooks show debuts tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, gang, tonight's new series lineup is "Doctor's Hospital" on NBC, "Kate McShane" on CBS, and "When Things Were Rotten" and "Starky and Hutch" on ABC.

The sole goodie is "Rotten," the Mel Brooks-created takeoff on the Robin Hood legend. Its humor is so broad you'll need a 25-foot wide set to catch it all, so dash out and get a 25-foot wide set.

"McShane," with Anne Meara as a feisty lawyer, is a salute to over-acting and bad writing. Its plot concerns a young ex-radical lady who has a good present but is arrested for an explosively bad past.

One comment from the radical gives you an idea of it all: "I just guess I'm not ready to hold hands with the Establishment."

NBC's medicine show, starring George Peppard as a chief neurosurgeon, has competent acting. But it suffers from a dread TV disease called rehashplotitis, compounded by switchitis.

Those who witnessed last Thursday's "Medical Story" on NBC saw the dedicated young intern put his career on the line by accusing a veteran surgeon of greed and unnecessary surgery that kills a patient.

In tonight's "Doctor's Hospital," a dedicated young intern puts her career on the line by accusing a veteran surgeon of having lost his skill and killing a patient with sheer ineptitude.

If M.D. rehashplotitis spreads, this'll be the year the entire nation turns its head and coughs at the mere sight of a sawbones.

Alas, the disease already has spread from surgery to flatfootery, as witness ABC's "Starky and Hutch," a hip young undercover cop series emitted by the makers of "The Rookies" and "S.W.A.T."

It stars David Soul and Paul Glaser as with-it fuzz who tonight chase a salt-and-pepper (black and white) duo of holdup men.

In last night's "Joe Forrester" premiere on NBC, Lloyd Bridges, as a wise old beat cop, also chased a salt-and-pepper team who, disguised as plainclothes cops, also committed stickups.

Despite a strained ending, "Forrester" had good acting, a fair plot, reasonably good dialogue and believable characters.

Americans vacationed closer to home

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Americans refused to let inflation cancel summer vacations this year, but they stayed closer to home, spent time in one place rather than traveling around and searched for bargains at hotels and restaurants.

An Associated Press survey of major tourist areas showed the number of visitors in every area was higher than it was in 1974 when the gasoline shortage cut sharply into summer motoring.

There was plenty of gasoline this year. The only problem was figuring out how to pay for the fuel, the lodgings, the food and the sightseeing that make up a vacation.

Michael Frucci, executive secretary of the Cape Cod Chamber of Commerce said 1975 "was a very good year." He said he expected statistics on over-all resort business to be up 12 per cent from 1974, making this year the best ever.

At the same time, some restaurants reported business was off.

"People are economy minded and are looking for less expensive places to eat or are bringing their own food," said one operator of a hotel with a restaurant. "Even at breakfast time, we found people eating less."

Florida officials said tourism business was up about 10 per cent from 1974. But they said that while the northern part of the state was, doing well, the southern part, including Miami, was suffering.

"Tourists have tended to pull in their horns," said Hal Cohen of the Miami Tourist Development Authority. "They're not traveling much more than 300 miles from their homes. This has worked to our disadvantage. North and Central Florida can still draw on tourists from other states."

The Automobile Club of Michigan said a comparison of 1974 and 1975 figures showed routing requests by state residents for Michigan only were up 11.5 per cent for the Upper Peninsula and 44.6 per cent for the Lower Peninsula, indicating people stayed in the state rather than take a long trip elsewhere.

The club said private campgrounds reported people were staying twice as long as they did last year and added that revenues were up for state parks, although no specifics were available.

$4,000 grant for park plan

SPRINGFIELD — Conservation Director Tony Dean announced that a $4,000 grant to Coloma-Rock Falls Park District, Whiteside County, has been approved by the Department of Conservation.

The grant is a 50 per cent reimbursement for purchase of four contiguous parcels of land totaling three-quarters of an acre for development as an addition to Centennial Park, north of U.S. 30 in eastern Rock Falls.

The money is from a state fund created by the State Open State Land Acquisition Act which allows the state to reimburse local governments for a large percentage of costs incurred in expanding local park acreage.

"The state's Open Space Land Acquisition grant program is a good example of the use of citizens' tax money to meet public needs. The benefits derived from this program will be experienced by local citizens not only in the immediate future, but for many years to come," Dean commented.

The Coloma-Rock Falls Park District acquisition was one of 70 projects from 53 communities, townships, counties, park districts, forest preserve and conservancy districts approved for a share in the $5 million available from the fund for the 1976 fiscal year.

Crusader in grain scandal made believers out of his detractors

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — People in the multibillion dollar grain trade have been calling Harlan L. Ryan a troublemaker for years. The difference now is that it is clear why he made trouble.

The havoc he has caused — at New Orleans' grain docks, at Chicago's grain terminals, in grain grading offices around Des Moines, Iowa — gained Ryan his reputation — and a group of detractors who used to imply he only imagined crooks along the grain chain.

But now — after indictments against 48 men and four companies from a continuing federal investigation of grain export operations at New Orleans — they no longer accuse him of an overactive imagination.

The crackdown pleases Ryan, who heads the U.S. Department of Agriculture's grain inspection field office here, which oversees private agencies that grade and inspect wheat, corn or soybeans being loaded into ships.

"You can be popular in this job, it's easy to give in to the grain trade, but I can't see that," he said.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, and others cite Ryan as a key figure in bringing on the federal probe which, along with a controversy over wheat sales to Russia, put the grain trade under a more watchful eye than has usually been cast on it.

The probe exposed a pattern of bribery, short-weighting, misgrading, theft and fraud amounting into the millions of dollars.

The FBI and the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, were subsequently assigned to check over grain operations in Chicago, St. Paul, Minn., Dallas, Portland, Ore., Seattle and other points. Congressional staff members pored over grain records. New laws were proposed.

The GAO is supposed to make its report to Congress in February, and the investigation may grind on another year.

Ryan, 47, said he got a strong push toward a role as reformer back when he was a farm boy of 14, growing up near Manchester, Iowa. One day his father took him along to drive the soybean crop to market. At the elevator, the Ryan beans were deemed to be of a lower grade than Ryan's father felt they actually were. On the trip home, with less cash than he counted on, his father was sunk in gloom. The trip left a vivid memory with Ryan.

"It made a deep impression on me," he said. "He knew he had been taken, but he didn't know how to do anything about it."

Ryan has known what to do about such things since he grew up and got into the grain inspection line: enforce the grain act and check for conflicts of interest.

His reform career started small and worked up.

At Des Moines, he argued that it wasn't right for the inspection and grading company to be owned by the very elevators whose grain it inspected. Not much came of that, but he did force the firm to adopt uniform fees for all instead of charging farmers more.

Transferred to the Chicago office, which oversaw the work of a state grain inspection agency, he quickly raised a stink about misgrading, incompetence, cheating on overtime, theft and featherbedding. At the time, the state agency had 127 inspectors to work Illinois grain terminals and was losing $250,000 a year.

"Plain mismanagement," said Ryan. He helped have Illinois grain inspections turned over to a private company.

"When I left there, the company was doing a good job with just 44 inspectors," he said.

Word that Ryan was being transferred to New Orleans, the world's largest grain port, wrought dismay in some quarters. Ryan said that part of the resistance to his coming to New Orleans was in the federal operation here, but he would not elaborate. "Some people fought my coming down here," he said. "There were things to overcome in our department. I was called a witchhunter, a troublemaker. But it worked itself out."

Shortly after arriving two years ago, he notified the USDA in Washington that he had found so many problems "I felt we were going to mushroom into a large-scale scandal."

The port handles about a billion bushels a year and foreign customers were howling about low quality and false weights, but couldn't do much about it.

In late 1973, Ryan proposed a federal grand jury investigation. In February 1974, U.S. Attorney Gerald Gallinhouse got the probe under way.

Five private companies, plus one state-operated inspection agency at Baton Rouge, handle grain inspections at the eight big elevators beside the Mississippi River in the New Orleans area.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-663: Hilda B., aged 29, has been married one year. "Dr. Crane," she began, "there were 12 of us high school senior girls in a literary club. And nine of them have married, with my wedding being the latest of the nine. "But four of those eight who married several years ahead of me, have already ended in divorce.

"Yet they seemed as devoted to their young husbands as I am to mine.

"So I am scared lest some unforeseen faults of mine might make my happy home end in the same sad state as the 50 per cent of the eight girls who married ahead of me.

"Why is there such a terribly high divorce rate even among intelligent couples?"

Why Divorce?
Sexual compatibility definitely is not the ONLY major factor for happy marriage.

Yet most divorces start in the bedroom!

So a wife's failure to provide the proper boudoir cheesecake obviously is the proverbial "straw that breaks the camel's back."

And why should modern, intelligent wives be so guilty in their own bedroom?

Well, it is because women in general are very illogical! Even before the wedding, from their experiences in dating boys, they soon realize that men are more hungry for sexual calories than are women!

They don't need to be physicians or Marriage Counsellors or multi-divorced women to recognize that axiomatic difference between male vs. female.

And they also realize that boys have a similar much greater appetite for dining room calories, too.

Yet soon after marriage, they conveniently forget the greater erotic needs of their husband as they concentrate on surfeiting his gastric hunger at the dinner table.

So they concoct all sorts of fancy dishes and clip new food recipes from the newspaper to tempt their mates into eating an extra 1,000 calories at the dinner table.

Indeed, it flatters their culinary ego to have their mates ask for second helpings of roast beef and other dinner victuals.

But how many wives, even during their first year of marriage, ever try to coax their mates into seeking second helpings of boudoir cheesecake?

Yet it is boudoir cheesecake, not roast beef and other dining room delicacies, that parades use to entice good husbands away from you wives!

"But, Dr. Crane," many tearful women have protested,

"I am quite happy with our boudoir romancing, so why does my husband develop an affair with another girl?"

Wives, you may be "quite happy" on 25 per cent of the erotic indulgence that your mate craves, but if you stop at that 25 per cent point, you still leave him 75 per cent hungry, dissatisfied and irritable.

So treble your own boudoir indulgence and your husband will then not be so hungry for outside boudoir cheesecake! Divorce starts in the bedroom because of the usual wife's sin of omission; not of commission!

So learn the recipe for boudoir cheesecake, by sending for the booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Sept. 10, the 253rd day of 1975. There are 112 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1813, an American naval force under Oliver Perry defeated the British in the battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812.
On this date:
In 1608, John Smith was elected governor of the Jamestown colony of Virginia.
In 1775, 5,000 Acadians were banished from Nova Scotia.
In 1846, Elias Howe of Spencer, Mass., received a patent on his sewing machine.
In 1898, Empress Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary was assassinated by an anarchist in Geneva.
In 1907, the British colony of New Zealand became a dominion.
In 1939, Canada declared war against Germany.
Ten years ago: United Nations Secretary General U Thant held conferences with the disputing sides in the India-Pakistan war.
Five years ago: Vice President Spiro T. Agnew denounced the Democratic Congress as reactionary, derelict and dominated by cave-dwelling leftists.
Today's birthdays: Golfer Arnold Palmer is 46 years old. Former baseball star Roger Maris is 41.
Thought for today: Show me a hero and I will write you a tragedy. — novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald.
Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, George Washington wrote his brother: "We are well and in no fear or dread of the enemy." He said he wished for nothing more than to see the enemy out of its strongholds, so the dispute could come to an issue.

YAKKING IT UP, two inmates of the Turtle Bank Zoo in West Orange, N.J., come face to face with the issues. Although the shaggy-haired yaks love the cold, they're also admirably suited to enjoy the heat as well. Their heavy coats keep their bodies cool, even with the temperature hovering in the 90s.

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — About five years ago I had a heart attack, so my doctor said that I should lose weight. At that time my weight was 220 pounds.
I went on a high protein, low fat diet, and my weight came down to 175 pounds. This made me very weak, and I tired easily with no pep or energy to do anything.
So, I brought my weight to 185 pounds, and I could do most anything, play golf, cut grass, work on my car, etc., but I had added to my eating angel food cake and some candy (chocolate). Well, my triglycerides came up to 145 and cholesterol to 220.
I am having a hard time trying to bring my triglycerides down below 100. I've changed my eating habits and eat mostly chicken breast, chop suey, very little boiled potato, also at least two slices of Italian bread with Egg Beaters for breakfast. Also all the orange and grapefruit juice is half juice half water.

The Doctor Says:

Can you help me with a book on what to eat to bring down the triglycerides? What substitute can I have for breakfast which is the toughest meal to prepare? I cannot eat only Egg Beaters every day!
Can you tell me how many grams of carbohydrates it takes to get into the blood? Is the carbohydrate burnt up by body energy physically? Is there any cereal recommendation that I could substitute for breakfast?
DEAR READER — Yours is a common problem. The knowledge that one should be on a low-fat, low-calorie diet is widespread, but the specifics of how to do it are not well communicated to the public.
That is exactly why I prepared a fairly large book on this subject. You should be able to get it at your library rather than buy it, but if you want your own copy get your bookstore to order it. It's called, "What You Need To Know About Food & Cooking for Health," (Viking).

You are doing pretty well, and your cholesterol level is okay. It would be better if you can lower your triglycerides, the fats in your blood. To do that you need to lose weight. Rapid loss of weight leads to fatigue and the symptoms you describe. Also overly enthusiastic restriction of carbohydrates will cause this in some people. I note you felt better after adding sweets.
I'd like to see a greater portion of your diet from vegetables, particularly the leafy ones in salads, fresh fruits and cereal products. Use the whole grain cereals, such as bran, shredded wheat products and whole oats. These will give you needed bulk and are low in calories for the volume you would eat. Breakfast is discussed in detail in my book; recipes and calorie contents of foods.

Breakfast is a good place to get your cereal to start the day off right. You could use fish for breakfast if you want more protein and a low-fat breakfast.
I'd also like to suggest that you start an exercise program. Start by walking a little every day and gradually increase your walking until you can and do walk three miles a day. There are good studies that show that exercise will lower triglyceride levels. Once you are walking regularly an hour a day you can check your status with your doctor to see if you can do anything more vigorous or not.

Nixon can't be trusted with papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says Congress had good reason to believe that Richard M. Nixon's official papers might not be returned to the government intact if the former president had even temporary custody of them.

That and other veiled suggestions that Nixon would be an untrustworthy guardian of the documents came in a 100-page court brief filed Monday as part of the continuing legal fight over ownership of the papers.

A three-judge federal panel is to hear oral arguments Sept. 22 in the case, which almost certainly will reach the Supreme Court eventually.

In defending the law that gave the government custody and ownership of Nixon's tapes and documents, the Justice Department said:

"Congress had a rational basis for perceiving that his presidential materials might not pass intact into the custody of the United States if he were permitted to have custody of them, even temporarily."

It added that Congress thus had concluded "Mr. Nixon would not be a trustworthy custodian, even temporarily."

To bolster this view, the government lawyers cited the 18½-minute gap in one of Nixon's taped conversations, for which "no satisfactory explanation has ever been provided"; the "material differences" between the White House and congressional transcripts of other tapes; and Nixon's repeated assertions of ignorance of the Watergate cover-up until March 1973, although transcripts "indicated to the contrary."

The brief also dismissed Nixon's suggestion that he, his wife and daughters should be given the task of deciding which of the 42 million pages of documents should be made public.

"The suggestion is, to put it kindly, unrealistic," it said.

A companion brief filed Monday by lawyers for a group of historians and journalists cited many of the same arguments as the Justice Department presentation.

The lawyers for columnist Jack Anderson and others also said it was long established law that the government owns any record or works created by its employees in the course of official duties.

To Nixon's contention that he needed the documents to complete his memoirs, the lawyers said that nowhere does the Constitution say "that a former president should be entitled to own history in this manner."

Meanwhile, other documents showed that Nixon ordered that political information gathered through a "national security" wiretap be sent to his top political adviser.

Nixon ordered the information turned over to his chief of staff and top political aide, H. R. Haldeman, after the FBI reported that the tap showed only political discussions.

The information was from a tap on the home telephone of former White House staffer Morton Halperin. Nixon ordered the "national security" tap continued even though the FBI reported that Halperin no longer worked for the government.

Halperin and 16 other government officials and newsmen were subjected to wiretapping in a Nixon administration effort to discover the source of news leaks about national security matters.

Pot, liquor charges filed

Dixon Police arrested two Dixon men Tuesday evening on charges of possession of marijuana and illegal transportation of liquor with a broken seal.

Charged were John L. Gillan, 17, 1003 University St., and Robert D. Watson, 21, 412 Pine St.

The two were arrested in Page Park. Police officers noticed a white panel truck park at the north end of the park. As officers approached, an object that appeared to be a cigarette was reportedly thrown from the truck. That item was later found and believed to contain marijuana. Police also found a small plastic bag concealed in the truck believed to contain marijuana. Two opened beer cans were additionally recovered from the truck by police.

The two men are to appear in circuit court September 23.

Dixon Rural water fighters take 3rd place

Four members of the Dixon Rural Fire Department captured third place in water fight competition held over the weekend in Mt. Carroll.

Composing the winning team which beat Sabula, Iowa, and LaMoille before losing to second place Milledgeville, were fire fighter Ed Gaul and Rural Fire Department Volunteers Tom Billeb, Darrell Mixen and John Drug. Winning the competition was the Mt. Carroll Fire Department Team. Other teams represented in the competition included Bellevue, Iowa; Coleta, Albany, Rock Falls, Savanna, Shannon, Prophetstown, Mt. Morris and Hoopole. The Dixon Rural Fire Department also had another team competing in the water fights.

Start ticket sales for UF kick-off dinner

The second meeting of the cabinet of the United Fund was held Monday. Committee chairmen gave progress reports on the campaign drive and the chairmen were asked to provide the United Fund office with the names of group leaders and volunteers so that a list can be compiled.

The cabinet was advised that area Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, who are among the 18 agencies being serviced by the United Fund campaign, have volunteered to distribute posters to area merchants on Saturday.

Tickets for the United Fund Kick-Off Dinner, scheduled for Sept. 18, are available for $5.50 per person. Special student rates are available this year and students may obtain dinner tickets for $3. It is hoped the reduced rates will encourage as many area students as possible to attend the kick-off dinner and become involved in the community campaign.

New procedures for reporting and auditing campaign pledges were presented to the cabinet. After discussing the procedures, the cabinet voted to accept the new procedures and implement them in this year's campaign as they will speed up processing of the pledges.

It was announced that two United Fund Campaign films were available to the campaign fund group leaders to assist in explaining the importance of the United Fund in every community.

Mayor William L. Naylor will officially proclaim the opening of the United Fund Campaign drive during the half-time of the Dixon Dukes football game with Rochelle on Sept. 19. Sept. 21 has been set aside as United Fund Sunday.

Mt. Morris Lions Club project wins approval

MT. MORRIS — The Mt. Morris Lions Club was granted permission Tuesday night to hold their annual Stock Sale on West Main Street on Saturday.

The Mt. Morris Village Board granted permission at their regular meeting held in the village hall.

Bills totalling $1,905.18 were approved for payment.

The Water and Sewer Department employees reported Willett and Hofmann had outlined procedures for chlorinating the village's water.

The board transferred $500 given to the Dr. Search Department by United Fund to the Economic Research Committee which works in conjunction with the planning commission.

Break-in at library

ROCHELLE — Peggy Lower, an employe of the Flagg Township Library, reported a break-in at the library.

The break-in was reported Tuesday to Rochelle police. Entry to the library was gained after vandals broke a window in the rear door of the library. Taken in the break-in was between $5 and $10. Police are continuing the investigation into the incident.

Truck blaze in Rochelle

ROCHELLE — The Rochelle Fire Department Tuesday received a call of a fire in a semi tractor trailer at the loading dock of the Kroger Grocery Store on Lincoln Avenue.

The cause of the fire which ignited the engine compartment was attributed to an electrical disorder.

Damage to the truck was estimated between $400 and $500.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

To Josephine Cochran, Thursday.

Water system work at Steward okayed

STEWART — The Alexander Chemical Company will install a chlorination system for the Steward village water supply according to an announcement made at the village board meeting Tuesday night. The cost of the new system was estimated at $525.

The board announced a public meeting has been scheduled Sept. 18, at 7:30 p.m., in the Steward Elementary School to discuss the acquisition of the Burlington-Northern Depot. Villagers who would like the village to keep the depot for a historical site should attend the meeting.

The board announced Doug Prosch, Steward would be repairing the old Village Hall. Funds for the repairs will be taken from revenue sharing funds.

A revised liquor ordinance was approved by the board. Board members reported the equipment and tables in the village park would be painted this fall.

The board announced the village had been sprayed for mosquitos last week by the Clark Spraying Co., Melrose Park.

The Street and Alley Committee of Ron Macklin, Bob Arne and Vernon Johnson was authorized to erect speed and load limit signs on Jones Street in the village and to mow the grass along Main Street.

It was reported the village board and the Burlington Railroads were working on an agreement to open the railroad crossing on Steward Street in case of an emergency.

The next village board meeting was set Oct. 14 at 7:30 p.m., in the Village Hall.

Seeking snowmobile patch entries

OREGON — So members of the Sheriff's Snowmobile Rescue Unit can be more easily identified during times of emergency, Ogle County Sheriff Jerry Brooks is asking Snowmobile Club members in Ogle County to participate in the design of a distinctive patch.

The following words should be included in the patch: Rescue—Ogle County-Sheriff's Snowmobile. These words can be arranged in whatever pattern you feel looks best. The word "Snowmobile" may be used or a picture of a snowmobile may be substituted. The patch should be no more than four inches in diameter and be no more than three colors.

All designs are to be submitted no later than Sept. 30 to the Sheriff's Department where a committee will select the patch that will be worn by all Sheriff's Snowmobile Rescue personnel.

The designer of the winning patch will receive a snowmobile helmet from the sheriff's department.

Contracts for spur work awarded

Contracts to rebuild the West Brooklyn and Harmon spurs have been awarded to Ladd Construction Co. Ladd, and to Whiteside Blacktop Co., Sterling. The joint contract totals $1,086,445.

Ladd was awarded another contract in Lee County. It is to provide a right side traffic escape lane at the intersection of Sauk Valley College entrance and Ill. 2 for $226,516.

In Ogle County, a contract has been given the Rockford Blacktop Construction Co. Loves Park, for $249,009 to resurface Tower Road from Byron north to the Winnebago county line.

Failure to appear brings arrest

John Mann, 25, 816 W. Second St., was arrested by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies Tuesday after failing to appear in court. Mann was originally charged by deputies on August 3 for driving while his license was under suspension. When he failed to appear in court a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Mann was being held in jail pending a court appearance today.

Fined on amended charge

Herman Merriman, 48, 1515 W. First St., pleaded guilty to an amended charge of reckless driving Tuesday and was fined $300 by Associate Judge Martin D. Hill. Merriman was initially charged with driving while intoxicated by sheriff's deputies Aug. 3.

Other dispositions Tuesday included:

Margaret DiAugustino, 34, 511 W. First St., fined $25 on a disorderly conduct conviction. She was arrested Sunday by Dixon Police following an incident at Joe's Tap, 310 W. First St.

Charges of disorderly conduct placed against William Fordham, 20, Ashton and Erno Somogyi, 39, Sublette, were dismissed. Both were arrested by sheriff's deputies following separate incidents.

A charge of unlawful use of a weapon was dismissed against Henry Randle. Randle was accused of the offense by Dixon Police Aug. 4.

Sentenced to prison

Charles G. Shreves, 27, McCausland, Iowa was sentenced to a one-to-three-year penitentiary term by Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales.

Shreves was arrested Aug. 12 by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in Gulfport, Mississippi on a Lee County warrant for forgery.

Shreves was convicted of cashing a stolen $180 money order at City National Bank.

The document was stolen from Charles Suhr. The FBI traced Shreves from a thumb print placed on the document at the time it was cashed. Bank officials said Shreves produced an Illinois drivers license identifying himself as Suhr on the date of the offense Jan. 3.

Cancer auction being planned

The Lee County Cancer Assn. will be sponsoring an auction on Oct. 11 starting at 1 p.m.

Chuck Reuter, Activity Chairman, stated that the auction will take place in the parking lot of the First Federal Savings and Loan in Dixon with all proceeds going to the Cancer fund.

Articles and materials needed for the auction include household items, clothing, toys, and furniture. People may bring these items to the First Federal Savings and Loan Building anytime during their regular Monday-Saturday business hours.

Poll holds key to Dixon candidacy for governor

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois Treasurer Alan J. Dixon is studying the results of a newly taken public opinion poll with an eye toward challenging Gov. Daniel Walker in the 1976 Democratic primary election, an aide said Wednesday.

Dixon, a former lawmaker from Belleville, also is discussing with Democrats across the state the possibility of mounting a drive for the governorship, the aide, Gene Callahan, said. He said a decision may be announced early in October.

Callahan refused to say what the polls taken by the Carbonale-based Illinois Institute of Public Opinion showed concerning the relative strengths of Dixon and Walker. He merely said that the Dixon camp is "very pleased" with the result, which he said indicate that "the incumbent governor can be beaten."

The polls, he said, were taken six weeks ago in Chicago suburbs and the five "collar counties" of Lake, McHenry, DuPage, Kane and Will and within the last 10 days in the four downstate telephone area codes. The City of Chicago was not polled, he said.

Others mentioned as possible challengers to Walker, who has not announced whether he will seek another term, are Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett and Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan. Howlett already has said that he will not run but many state politicians believe he would be the strongest candidate regular Democrats could send against the maverick governor.

These politicians believe Howlett might be induced to change his mind and seek the special two-year gubernatorial term in which it is believed that a tax increase may be required to keep the General Revenue Fund solvent.

"Mike Howlett has told people that he doesn't intend to run, and everybody knows that Mike Howlett doesn't lie," Callahan said. "On the other hand, every man has a right to change his mind."

Callahan said that if Dixon decides to run he will seek the endorsement of the Democratic slatemaking committee, dominated by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, as well as the backing of such anti-Daley forces as the Independent Voters of Illinois and the Chicago-based Independent Precinct Organization. Both of the independent groups backed Walker in his 1972 election drive, while Daley supported the primary candidacy of U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, who at the time was lieutenant governor.

Callahan said Dixon probably would make his decision early next month if, as expected, Walker vetoes legislation on his desk to move the primary from March to May. He estimated that a run to unseat the incumbent governor would cost $500,000 to $600,000.

Strikes keep education at standstill

CHICAGO (AP) — Public education remained totally halted here today, with elementary and high school teachers moving into their second week of strike and the union head of striking city public college teachers sentenced to jail.

The city's 27,000 public school teachers went out on strike a week ago, canceling the start of classes for some 530,000 pupils. Negotiations continued today after earlier sessions between representatives for the Chicago School Board and the teachers failed. Joining the negotiators Tuesday for the first time were school superintendent-elect Joseph P. Hannon and board president John Carey.

The primary remaining issue in the dispute appears to be money.

Chicago Teachers Union president Robert Healey said after Tuesday's negotiations that the union has trimmed its requests by $51 million. Healey also said he had shown the board negotiators how to rearrange existing funds so that $24 million would be available for teachers' salaries.

Healey said the union's latest proposal calls for $123 million in raises and other benefits.

Hannon, for his part, said the board had made an offer which would definitely get the schools opened, but he declined to elaborate.

Earlier, Hannon said, "I don't know exactly what it is that's going to get them back into the classroom. We are going to go in (the school year) with a balanced budget and not mortgage the future of this city or the school system."

Estimates by both the school board and the union showed that about 96 per cent of the city's elementary and high school teachers honored picket lines.

If there is no settlement today in the dispute—the fourth walkout in six years by the CTU—the Chicago Board of Education could begin losing vital state aid.

State law requires 180 school days. The Chicago school calendar had scheduled 185 days but the five additional days will be wiped out by the strike today.

Unless additional days are tagged on at the end of the regularly scheduled school year, the Chicago public school system will begin losing about $1.1 million more than it saves by not paying the teachers' salaries during the strike.

Meanwhile, a strike by college teachers continued at the eight Chicago city colleges, keeping classrooms closed for some 90,000 students. In connection with that strike, Norman Swenson, president of the Cook County Teachers Union, was ordered jailed for five months Tuesday after refusing to obey a back-to-work order issued by a Circuit Court judge.

A teacher strike also continued at Thornton Community College in South Holland.

Walker signs bill boosting minimum wage

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker has signed legislation that hikes the state's minimum wage from $1.90 an hour to $2.20, and 300,000 new workers will be covered by the measure.

Another bill banning employment of professional strikebreakers in strikes and lockouts in Illinois also was signed into law Tuesday by the governor.

Walker said at a news conference he would ask the General Assembly to change the effective date of the minimum wage bill from July 1 to Dec. 1.

"It isn't fair to ask underpaid workers to wait that long," he said. "Inflation won't wait."

The present federal wage floor of $2.10 will increase to $2.30 in January. Walker said new workers covered by the minimum wage law include persons employed by companies with fewer than five employees and such movie theater workers as cashiers and candy counter attendants.

Commenting on the strike-breaker bill, Walker said, "I don't like strikebreakers. I don't like what they stand for, and the people of Illinois don't want strikebreakers in this state."

Under the law, persons employing professional strikebreakers could be sentenced up to a year in jail and fined up to $1,000.

In addition, Walker signed four other bills Tuesday that were favored by labor forces in the General Assembly.

One bill allows the state Labor Department to withhold licenses from companies who use children improperly in door-to-door sales.

Another lowers from 21 to 18 the unemployment compensation eligibility age for persons working for their parents.

A third gives miners the right to refuse to work in a mine if they believe it is unsafe.

And a final measure provides a maximum 2.7 per cent unemployment insurance tax rate on the first $40,000 of taxable wages in each calendar quarter. The current 2.7 per cent ceiling applies to the first $20,000.

'Tomato' seeds produce crop of marijuana

WOOD RIVER, Ill. (AP) — A packet of tomato seeds purchased by an elderly Wood River couple last spring produced a strange crop this fall.

One plant did produce tomatoes but the others had the John Sherakas stumped. They said they just couldn't figure out what they were.

Mrs. Sherakas said she and her retired husband were watching television recently and saw pictures of a plot of wild-growing marijuana.

"I told my husband that those plants looked just like what we were growing in our backyard tomato garden," she said. "The stuff was about five feet tall and smelled funny."

"I forgot the name of the company we ordered the seeds from last spring but they guaranteed we would get tomato plants 20 feet high," Mrs. Sherakas said.

She sent a leaf to Fred Clausen, garden columnist for The Alton Telegraph. He said it was a marijuana leaf and advised the Sherakas to burn the plants.

"We certainly didn't want to break the law so we pulled them up and destroyed them," Mrs. Sherakas said. "The lone tomato plant is doing fine."

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank my many friends and relatives for their thoughtfulness while I was in KSB Hospital; also the doctors and nurses. A special thanks to the many ministers for their visits and prayers. These will always be remembered.

Charles Butterbaugh

I wish to thank Dr. George Silvest, doctors, nurses on third floor and nurses aides in Intensive Care and all my friends and relatives for visits while I was a patient in KSB.

Mr. Everett Brown

We deeply appreciate all the help and kindness shown us by the Emergency Fire Squad, the Police Department, neighbors, friends and relatives for all the beautiful cards, flowers, calls and prayers. Special thanks to Dr. Murphy, second floor nurses, aides and students. A very special thanks to those best friends who have taken such good care of our business during the time Dick was injured and in the hospital and since his return home. Thanks to our customers one and all.

Open house for Diet Workshop planned at Y

The Dixon YMCA will have an open house for the Diet Workshop Sept. 18, beginning at 7 p.m., in the YMCA Club Room.

The Diet Workshop is a diet nutrition program using a common sense approach to dieting. Members receive recipe instructions for good eating habits, an isotonic exercise program during class and also at home. Lessons in behavior modification aid the dieter in reshaping faulty eating habits.

Once a goal weight is reached, the member is offered a free maintenance course which teaches the dieter how to remain slim forever.

Workshop members enjoy a tasting party once a month. Visitors are encouraged to attend free at these potluck meetings.

Anyone wishing more information should contact the program department at the Dixon YMCA or the Diet Workshop coordinator office at 732-7439.

Wolf owner plans $1 million suit against New Jersey

CHICAGO (AP)—Rocky the Timberwolf finds life in the civilized world a little trying.

Rocky is the star of a educational wildlife exhibit owned by John Harris.

Banned by Illinois officials last spring, Rocky's owner now claims slander against the state of New Jersey.

Rocky was back in Illinois Tuesday and a statement issued in his name said a $1 million suit will be filed against New Jersey officials for banning him from exhibitions in that state.

Rocky bit 1½-year-old Melissa Stein on July 21 in Teaneck, N.J., but trainer Harris said it happened only because the child touched a bottle while the wolf was attempting to drink from it.

Harris produced an affidavit signed by Frank and Leona Stein, parents of the youngster, saying they "feel strongly that it was not an attack upon our child."

The affidavit said, "No plastic surgery was utilized on our daughter. However, she did receive stitches...We have known Rocky for almost two years and fervently hope that this unfortunate accident does not harm or hinder the wonderful educational work that Rocky has been doing for the sake of wildlife."

Harris shows the animal at schools, fairs and elsewhere as part of a wildlife conservation exhibit. About 1.5 million children have petted Rocky without incident in 40 states, he said.

Harris also criticized Illinois Conservation Director Anthony Dean for at first refusing to issue a permit for the exhibition of an endangered species, ending Rocky's role at the Chicago Flower and Garden Show in April. Dean later recanted and apologized.

Bicentennial meet at Compton

COMPTON — For Compton to become a Bicentennial community, a meeting is being organized for all Compton residents interested in carrying the Bicentennial theme through 1976 in the community. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today at the Sportsmen's Hall. A representative from the State Bicentennial Commission will be there to answer any questions. Compton's chairman is Mrs. Donald Swope. This meeting is being sponsored by the village of Compton.

Taxpayers to meet

The Ogle County Taxpayers Association will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Bertolet Building in Leaf River. The public is welcome. Refreshments will be served.

Leon Vaupel seeks GOP nomination as state representative

Leon D. Vaupel has officially announced his intention for seeking the Republican nomination for state representative in the 35th District.

LEON VAUPEL

Vaupel is originally from Davis Junction. He graduated from Asbury College with a B.A. degree. His military experience included officer candidate school and a year in Vietnam. While in Vietnam as a lieutenant, Vaupel was wounded and received the Purple Heart. In addition, he was awarded the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry with Bronze Star and other U.S. Military decorations. Vaupel was released from active duty as a First Lieutenant, and presently holds the same rank in the Illinois

National Guard. He is a member of the United Methodist Church, Masonic Lodge, Freeport Consistory, Tebala Temple Shrine, VFW, and the Ogle County Young Republican Club.

Vaupel believes that today, more than ever, that the will of the people should be followed by the elected public servant. Being a life-long resident of this area, he is very aware of the problems of the citizens.

Vaupel was previously one of the owner-operators of Vaupel's Inc. in Davis Junction, a grain elevator and farm retail store. He is presently employed as an advertising representative for the Carroll County Review. Because of this constant relationship with a cross section of farmers, businessmen, and labor, he is very sensitive to the need for more active representation. He believes that all too often the representative's job is a part-time endeavor, rather than the demanding position it is. Vaupel feels very strongly that representation should not stop after the election. People should be informed on a regular basis as to what items of interest affect them before they become law. To be able to vote the will of the people, Vaupel is working on ways to be kept informed by each individual of the 35th District.

Vaupel recently purchased a home in Polo, and resides there with his wife, Louise. Mrs. Louise Vaupel is employed as a medical technologist at KSB Hospital in Dixon.

Commodore Barry

An Irish-born seaman became America's first commodore after serving in the colonial navy throughout the Revolutionary War. John Barry outfitted the first American fleet in the autumn of 1775. During the war he led a series of successful attacks on British ships in American harbors. In 1776 his cruiser, the Lexington, became the first American cruiser to capture a British warship. Barry conceived of the idea of using small, armed boats to harass British frigates and intercept supplies going to the enemy ships. He fought in the last battle of the war on March 10, 1783, in the Gulf of Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) Pupils seeking a high school diploma here may soon be required to pass a test to determine if they are really literate after 12 years of public school.

"I hope this will help answer the people who say a high school diploma doesn't mean anything any more," Dr. Donald Johnson, associate superintendent of the city's school system, said Monday.

Johnson said it is the first practical test of literacy in the nation. He said the local school board will be asked next week to make it a requirement for graduation.

The test is based on such practical knowledge as how to understand street signs, newspaper advertisements, Social Security applications and telephone books — the things people come in contact with in everyday living.

"We set out two years ago, at the request of the Florida legislature, to develop a test of functional literacy," Johnson said. "No one had successfully defined it until we went to a large number of people, including about 200 who are illiterate, and found out what are the essential reading skills to survival."

He said the first test devised took three hours to administer. "That was too long," Johnson said. "We cut it to three separate tests and found we had one that was highly reliable."

The test in reduced size has been administered to fifth and ninth grade pupils and when compared to standardized achievement tests was 89 per cent accurate, he said.

About 25 per cent of the fifth graders and 75 per cent of the ninth graders made passing grades.

Johnson proposes to require all ninth graders to take the test. He said those who fail will be assigned remedial reading and get specialized instruction until they pass, a requirement for graduation.

"We can give form A of the test the first time," he said. "If they fail, they will get form B the second time and those who fail again will get form C. That way they won't just take the same test."

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Early in 1776 British Gen. Sir Henry Clinton led an expedition down the Atlantic coast to cooperate with the strong Tory factions in the southern states. The command got off to a late start and, by the time Clinton reached an appointed rendezvous, Tory forces in Virginia and North Carolina had been defeated and dispersed. He then decided to capture Charleston, S.C., for use as a base of operations, but a four-week siege, beginning on June 1, was beaten off by the determined resistance of Col. William Moultrie's small force on Sullivan's Island.

Medical items in the news

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Cooler temperatures should end an outbreak of St. Louis encephalitis which has resulted in the 449 cases and 30 deaths which have been reported to the Center for Disease Control this year, a spokesman says.

Only 139 of the 449 cases reported to the CDC have been confirmed, the spokesman for the U.S. Public Health Service agency said Monday.

The CDC spokesman said it would be months before it is determined how many of the reported cases were, in fact, encephalitis.

St. Louis encephalitis is the more severe strain of the disease which affects the central nervous system.

The activity of mosquitoes which transmit the disease to humans is inhibited when nighttime temperatures drop into the 50s, the CDC spokesman said. Humans usually pick up the disease from mosquitoes, which get it from birds which have been infected by other mosquitoes.

He said the first frost will kill the mosquitoes and should put an end to new cases of encephalitis.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Food and Drug Administration files indicate a controversial drug was to be released for general use despite warnings from the agency's staff it had been inadequately tested and was "directly related" to several deaths, the Los Angeles Times said today.

The newspaper said that since the late 1960s FDA officials allowed 15,302 persons to be injected with the drug, chymopapain, "in spite of scattered reports of tragic results."

The Times said the drug, a derivative of the papaya plant, was used for treating slipped discs. It has drawn repeated warnings that it might have a harmful effect on delicate nerve tissue near the discs.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Although scientists have known that women who smoke cigarettes tend to give birth to undersized babies, two researchers say they are beginning to understand how carbon monoxide from cigarette smoke disrupts the process of supplying oxygen to fetuses.

Drs. Gail Gurtner and Barry Burns of Johns Hopkins University say research with sheep is altering the old theory that oxygen perks out of the mother's bloodstream through the placenta and into the fetus by a simple process of diffusion.

The researchers say they have found that the placenta contains molecules, similar to blood hemoglobin, that speed the flow of oxygen from mother to fetus in bucket-brigade fashion from molecule to molecule.

Given a choice, the molecules will carry carbon monoxide rather than oxygen, a process that tends to concentrate carbon monoxide in a fetus carried by a smoking mothers, they said in an interview.

Dixon defeats Sterling, Cowley is individual winner

By MIKE CUNNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor

SAUK VALLEY—The Dixon varsity cross-country squad upped its 1975 season slate to 4-1, while senior Duane Cowley captured his second consecutive race as the Dukes easily defeated the Sterling Golden Warriors 17-46, here, Tuesday afternoon.

Cowley, who tied teammate Ed Love for first in a double dual at Polo last Friday, outdistanced the field to capture individual honors over the three-mile course in 16:38. Love finished in 16:53 for second place, while the Dukes' John Ortgiesen was third in 17:11.

Dave Milne was the top finisher for Sterling with a 17:16 clocking for the fourth slot. Dixon then swept places five through eight, with Jim Magnafici (17:27), Louie Apple (17:33), Tom Mott (17:41) and Andy Schumacher (17:53) finishing in that order.

Aaron Sedg gave the Golden Warriors ninth (18:01) while Steve Christiansen of Dixon rounded out the top 10. Mark Swegle of the Dukes was 11th, followed by Pat Cross, Steve Dugan, Keko Martinez and Juan Chavez of Sterling.

Dixon's Doug Stouffer took 16th, with the rest of the field being completed by Golden Warriors harriers Ed Ramos, Benito Rodriguez, Anthony Avelar, Dave Knowles, Tim Hess, Kevin Babel, Dave Lehman and Mark Metzler.

The Dukes' next competition will be at the Ottawa Invitational on Saturday.

Dixon also took the sophomore meet as the Dukelets posted a 20-39 decision. The Dukelets grabbed four of the top five and seven of the initial 10 places.

Ben Gamel toured the 2.24-mile course in 13:22 for the best time for the Dukelets. Sterling's Paul Ramos took second in 13:37. Dixon teammates Jim Hicks (14:29), Mark Lawyer (14:31) and John Woodyatt (14:33) finished in a pack for third, fourth and fifth spots, respectively. Hicks, Lawyer and Woodyatt are freshmen.

Sterling's Lyle Zimmerman finished eight seconds behind Woodyatt for sixth, while Tim Higgs of Dixon was seventh in 14:50. Bill Bartels of Sterling took eighth in 14:52, three seconds ahead of Dixon's Bruce Belman. The Dukelets' Ed Deets was 10th in 15:07.

Rounding out the field were Sterling's Tom Hutten 11th, Greg VanWyhe 12th, Chuck Babel 15th, and Jamie Valdez 16th, plus Jeff Wiggins (13th) and Todd Mondlock (14th) of Dixon.

JV's lose, frosh win

PERU—The Dixon High School junior varsity football squad lost a 20-7 decision to Peru St. Bede, here, Monday night in its season opener. Randy Hazelwood got the only Dixon touchdown with 2:40 to go in the game.

Rick Trader kicked the extra point. St. Bede tallied on two runs by the quarterback, a safety and an intercepted pass. Mike Ramage picked up 40 yards passing in the final quarter for Dixon with Dan Frost quarterbacking the first half and Pat Venier the third frame.

Venier intercepted a pass while Tony Fassler came up with a fumble recovery. Dave Thompson and Gordie Wooten received praise from Dixon coach Ron Koessler as "having played well defensively as half-backs," while Mike Duffy and Kent Johnson ran the ball well offensively.

"Everyone who played did a good job of hitting," Koessler continued. "I think we actually outthit them throughout the game. Scott Helfrich did well as a defensive tackle along with Fassler while John Love stood out at a defensive invert."

Dixon will now go to LaSalle-Peru next Monday.

LA SALLE—Dave Cole scored twice while the Dixon defense stymied LaSalle-Peru three times inside the 15-yard line as the Dixon freshmen defeated L-P 20-6, here, Tuesday. The home team grabbed a 6-0 lead in the first quarter but Cole tallied on runs of seven and 15 yards in the second frame as Dixon took control.

Bill Commons added the game-clincher in the fourth quarter on a 20-yard scamper. Kevin Knack passed to Dave Klamen for the conversion points. Dixon ended with 240 yards to only 95 for LaSalle-Peru. Commons racked up 99 yards rushing with Cole adding 89.

Knack ended with three pass completions for 30 yards in a half dozen attempts. Jon Santos had eight tackles and five assists to pace the Dixon defense. The frosh "B" team lost 18-0 despite 64 yards rushing by Jamie Robbins. Dixon will now host Sterling on Sept. 18.

The trend toward bright, modern buildings in the NBA is best illustrated in the Central Division. The "oldest" building is the Omni, a beautiful structure opened for the 1972-73 season. . . . Washington moved into the Capital Center the next season, then Cleveland last year, with New Orleans and Houston occupying new arenas at the start of the 1975-76 season.

FREEPORT—Kishwaukee grabbed the team honors with a 644 in the Highland "36" tournament, here, Tuesday. Kishwaukee edged Blackhawk (645) in the 15-team competition.

Illinois Central grabbed third with a 647 followed by Highland 652, Sauk Valley 656, Spoon River and Rock Valley 662, Elgin 667, Illinois Valley 672, McHenry 690, Waubesa 691, Carl Sandburg 700, Clinton 701, Triton 712 and Concordia 739.

Mark Nelson of Illinois Central was the medalist with a 149. Kishwaukee's Ed Troha grabbed second with a 156 while Dave Loyd of Illinois Central was third with 158. Jim Schrempf of Blackhawk took fourth (158), Mike Yackley of Highland fifth (158), Blackhawk's Randy Williams sixth (161), Spoon River's Steve Fulton seventh (161), Joe Panozzo of Kishwaukee eighth (161), Dave Britton of Highland ninth (162) and Jeff Holmes of Blackhawk 10th with a 162.

Sauk Valley was paced by Dan Quick's 163 while Dave Summers and Scott Lawrence each carded a 164. Mike Houseman finished with a 165 and Dale Sutkay 169.

Sport Notes

Booster Club meeting

The Dixon Booster Club will have its first meeting of the 1975-76 school year Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Head varsity football coach Sam Applebaum will be present to answer questions about the Dixon-DeKalb game. The film of the Dukes-Barbs contest will also be shown.

Harmon forecast

The Harmon Football Forecast, one of the country's most popular sports features, will appear in the Dixon Evening Telegraph each week during the 1975 football season. In addition to forecasting the results of some 180 games each week, as well as the post-season bowl games, Harmon will rate the top 20 college teams in the nation each week, beginning with the forecast on Sept. 20. His National Football League pro selections will also be published weekly.

Starting his 19th year of football forecasting, Bob Harmon has witnessed the publication of his prognostications grow from three newspapers in 1957 to over 400 in 1974. His forecasts now appear in newspapers of all sizes in 47 states. A very special feature appears this fall as Mike Cuniff, Dixon Evening Telegraph sports editor; Chuck Vail, Dixon High School athletic director; Sam Applebaum, Dixon head varsity football coach, and an area football coach will also make predictions about a number of upcoming contests.

Could end pre-season 3-3

Bears close with Oilers

CHICAGO—Hoping to succeed Houston as the National Football League's most improved team in 1975, the Chicago Bears entertain the Oilers in Soldier Field Saturday at 8 p.m., to open a three-game home stand and close the year's pre-season schedule.

Done in at Miami Saturday 21-10 by what Jack Pardee termed "a wealth of quality experience and the master of the play action pass (Bob Griese)," the Bears would like to even their pre-season record at 3-3 and enter the championship schedule off a victory.

Chicago fans will be treated to a pair of Bear firsts at Soldier Field:

1.) Walter Payton gets his second call in a Bear uniform after debuting in the Orange Bowl a week ago. Payton danced through the Dolphins for 94 yards on 22 carries Saturday — the biggest running total by a Chicagoan since Oct. 21 (12 games) when Carl Garrett posted 101 yards against the Packers in a 10-9 Bear win.

2.) Twenty other dancers — the Bear Essentials — will perform prior to kickoff. The Bear's new dance group's first scheduled show was rained out two weeks ago.

While Pardee will probably delay arranging a starting lineup until Saturday, number one draft pick Payton started the Miami game running with 17th round pick Roland Harper (60 yards). The pair spearheaded Chicago to its largest rushing total of the season, 219 yards.

With the rookie pair injecting new life into the Chicago running attack, the Bears should get another lift for their encounter with the Oilers as big back Cid Edwards returns to action. Edwards has been nursing a shoulder injury recently. Pardee hopes to give him some contact work this weekend to ready the eight-year pro for the opener against Baltimore the following week.

While the Bears had to reduce their player limit to 46 men Tuesday — of the 52 players rostered Monday, 25 are wearing Chicago colors for the first time this year. The additions of receiver Bob Grim from the New York Giants and cornerback Ted Vactor from the Washington Redskins last week are included in that figure.

To date, 21 of the 48 1974 Bears have departed the scene. In the lockerroom Saturday Pardee taught his first NFL team some basic math: "You have a rare opportunity in professional life. Most professional men don't get the opportunity to prove themselves with a company until they're with it for six, seven years. Here you have the opportunity to do it now . . . most of you in your third, fourth, fifth year of professional life."

Turning to football: "We have the makings of a good football team here. It's up to you to prove yourselves."

Chicago's defense has shown indications of being among the NFL's stingiest thus far. The 60 points given up by the Bears represent the fourth lowest figure in the league after five pre-season games. Only St. Louis (46), Los Angeles (51) and Miami (57) have been tougher.

Fourteen of those points came off interceptions by Denver and the Dolphins. Increasing the Bears' offensive capabilities is the priority item on Pardee's practice plans this week.

"We have no clear-cut choice at quarterback," the coach lamented Saturday night. "None of our three quarterbacks have really moved the ball well consistently. It's more of picking one to work with rather than having one rise above the others."

Since the opener when Gary Huff started, Bobby Douglass has gotten Pardee's opening nod the last four games. "We've made tremendous progress in our rushing game recently," praised Pardee. "We've got to concentrate more on our passing game. We need more time, more practice working on it." The Bears hope Houston will feel the effects of that extra work Saturday evening.

White Sox lose

CHICAGO (AP) — Dick Williams, who has seen better days as a manager, can't be blamed if at times he expects too much.

His California Angels had scored a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night, but Williams wasn't totally pleased because "they made it close with two runs they shouldn't have."

Nyls Nyman singled past Bruce Bochte at first base with one out in the seventh and Williams thought Bochte should have "made the play even though the ball was hit hard."

And Brian Downing followed by dumping a single to left. Williams thought left-fielder Dave Collins broke back on the ball instead of in. Both runners eventually scored on a single by Jerry Hairston.

"Maybe I'm asking too much of them and I'm thinking in another era," said Williams who managed the Boston Red Sox to a pennant in 1967 and the Oakland A's to a pair of world championships.

However, Williams was pleased with the relief pitching of left-hander Jim Brewer. After Hairston singled home two runs off winner Ed Figueroa, 13-12, Williams called on Brewer who retired the last seven batters with ease to gain his third save of the season.

Wilbur Wood, 14-19, suffered the loss and had most of his trouble with the bottom of the batting order as Mike Miley drove in two runs and scored one on a pair of singles and a sacrifice fly and Andy Etchebarren had a pair of singles, drove in a run and scored another.

The winning run, however, came in the top of the seventh when Lee Stanton walked, stole second and scored on a double by Bochte.

Orioles close within five

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

A funny thing is happening to the Boston Red Sox on the way to the American League East pennant.

They're slipping—and the Baltimore Orioles could have the last laugh.

The Orioles, all but given up as dead birds less than a week ago, kept their fluttering hopes alive with a 9-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday night.

Coupled with Boston's 3-2 defeat in 10 innings at Cleveland, it moved the Orioles within five games of the top—the closest they've been since July 8.

While the Red Sox and Orioles were trying to decide the outcome of the American League East, the Oakland A's strengthened their chances in the AL West with a 2-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals in 14 innings.

Elsewhere, the California Angels edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4; the New York Yankees defeated the Detroit Tigers 9-6 and the Texas Rangers took a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins—3-0 and 4-2.

Indians 3, Red Sox 2
Alan Ashby's run-scoring single in the 10th led Cleveland over Boston. George Hendrick doubled and eventually scored on Ashby's hit to left. The Indians' victory gave them a 9-5 edge over the East leaders, the only AL team to hold the upper hand over Boston this year.

A's 2, Royals 1
Bill North's run-scoring single with two out in the 14th inning gave Oakland its big victory over Kansas City. The victory boosted the A's lead to seven games over the Royals in the American League West.

A two-out error by Kansas City shortstop Fred Patek opened the door for the A's winning rally. Bert Campaneris, who reached base on Patek's miscue, stole second and raced home with the game-winning on North's dramatic hit.

Yankees 9, Tigers 6
New York first baseman Chris Chambliss became the first Yankee to wallop five hits in a game this season in the Yankee's defeat of Detroit. He singled home a run in a three-run first, doubled home one in a three-run third and capped a two-run rally in the eighth with an RBI single. In addition, Chambliss had two more singles.

Rangers 3-4, Twins 0-2
Dave Nelson's two-run single in the ninth capped a three-run rally, leading Texas over Minnesota in the second game for a sweep of their doubleheader. Rookie Jim Umberger stopped Minnesota on four hits and pitched Texas to victory in the first game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
It's been a frustrating season for Steve Carlton, the National League Cy Young Award winner in 1972 but now a less-than-500 pitcher.

When his pitching record was up Carlton was up, but when his pitching fell on hard times, he was down, often hiding from reporters in the off-limit trainer's room or telling interviewers "I'm not talking this week."

The bouncy, happy-go-lucky Carlton, the cover boy of 1972, returned to Philadelphia Tuesday night, and he was once again an open book.

"I've been pain free for the last three or four games," said the big left-hander, who pitched and batted the Philadelphia Phillies back into the pennant picture with a six-hit, 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. "I've been raring back and throwing the ball. I don't have to finesse, and it makes a difference."

Padres 11, Reds 2
The Reds may be kings of the NL West but the Padres weren't letting them rest on their laurels. Willie McCovey drove in four runs and left-hander Rich Folkers fired a three-hitter to bring the Reds down to earth.

Dodgers 8, Giants 3
Lee Lacy's tie-breaking single in the eighth inning touched off a five-run rally, giving the Dodgers a victory that pulled them 6½ games ahead of the third-place Giants.

Astros 4, Braves 1
Home runs from Marty Perez, Mike Lum and Dave May of the Atlanta Braves powered rookie right-hander Adrian Devine to his first victory of the season. Devine was summoned last week from the Braves' Richmond, Va., farm club.

Expos 2, Mets
Jim Dwyer's single and Mike Jorgensen's run-scoring double in the 10th inning sent the faltering Mets to their fifth straight loss. The Mets, who were part of the NL East pennant race a week ago before losing two of three to the Pirates, are now nine games out.

Bears get Mike Adamle

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It was the Stock Exchange at midday. It was rush hour in midtown.

It was cutdown day in the National Football League.

Players retired, went on waivers, or were otherwise discarded with the rapidity of machine gun fire Tuesday as coaches frantically pared their rosters to the 46-man limit.

And some big names fell victim to old age, poor health, or the simple inability to cut the mustard.

Tight end Marv Fleming, the only player to appear in five Super Bowls, was cut by the Washington Redskins. Center Bill Curry of the Green Bay Packers retired, as did defensive back Cornell Green of the Dallas Cowboys. And veteran linebacker Bobby Bell was placed on waivers by the Kansas City Chiefs. Coaches get to do it all again next Tuesday, when the final trim to 43 players is due.

Fleming, a 13-year veteran, had played in two Super Bowls with the Packers and three more with the Miami Dolphins. Curry, an 11-year man, had played with Fleming on the Packer team that beat the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10 in Super Bowl I eight years ago.

Green ended a 13-season career that included his becoming an all-pro at strong safety and cornerback, intercepting 34 passes and once playing 182 consecutive games. He'll become a Dallas scout.

Bell asked to be placed on waivers.

There were enough bodies shifted Tuesday to stock a lot of teams for a long time. Running backs and draft choices changed hands like bargains at a bazaar.

The Chiefs acquired defensive lineman Randy Beisler and a draft choice from San Francisco in exchange for defensive back Nate Allen. The 49ers also sent cornerback Frank Oliver to the Buffalo Bills for a draft pick.

That was only the beginning. The New York Jets traded running back Mike Adamle to the Chicago Bears, receiving RB Carl Garrett and a 1976 draft; Cincinnati swapped guard Pat Matson to Green Bay for a future draft; New Orleans got a mystery choice from Miami for wide receiver Melvin Baker, and the Oakland Raiders traded running back Charlie Green and wide receiver Kent Gaudes to Philadelphia for more picks.

Minnesota running back Oscar Reed now belongs to Atlanta after another draft deal; St. Louis has a draft choice for sending running back Jim Germany to Green Bay; the Saints got a pick from Baltimore for RB Howard Stevens, and Dallas sent linebacker Ken Hutchinson to San Diego for, you guessed it, an undisclosed draft choice.

Then came the cuts. The New York Giants dropped five, as did their local rivals, the Jets. The Packers cut five, Minnesota the same, Oakland slashed four, the Cardinals and Saints three, on and on.

Volume for the day's business was close to 100 careers.

Missouri climbs to fifth

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

The Missouri Tigers, unheralded in the preseason rankings, have climbed into fifth place in this week's Associated Press college football poll thanks to Monday night's nationally televised 20-7 upset of Alabama.

The stunning setback dropped the Crimson Tide, runnerup in the first 1975 poll, all the way to 13th.

Oklahoma's defending national champions held onto first place, although they don't open their season until Saturday. The Sooners received 51 first-place votes and 1,108 points.

from a panel of 56 sports writers and broadcasters across the country.

Alabama's defeat allowed Michigan, Ohio State and Southern California to move up one spot each to second, third and fourth, respectively. Michigan received one first-place ballot and 918 points, Ohio State got three No. 1 votes and 787 points while Southern Cal earned 746 points. None of the three has played a game yet.

The remaining first-place vote went to Missouri and the Tigers' total of 579 points shot them all the way up to fifth place ahead of Nebraska, Auburn, Notre Dame, Texas A&M and Penn State, who round out the Top Ten. Missouri and Penn State are the only members of the first regular-season Top Ten to have seen action.

Penn State fell from sixth to 10th after barely edging Temple 26-25.

TOTAL SATISFACTION GUARANTEE

Everything you buy at Kroger is guaranteed for your total satisfaction regardless of manufacturer. If you are not satisfied, Kroger will replace your item with the same brand or a comparable brand or refund your money.

We also guarantee that we will do everything in our power to have ample supplies of all advertised specials on our shelves when you shop for them. If, due to conditions beyond our control, we run out of an advertised special, we will substitute the same item in a comparable brand when such an item is available, reflecting the same savings or, if you prefer, give you a "RAIN CHECK" which entitles you to the same advertised special at the same special price any time within 30 days.

You Get A Choice At Kroger

There's Kroger's original People's Choice Beef. And There's Baby Beef—Younger, Lower Priced too. When you want full-flavored U.S. Choice Grade Beef with generous marbling for fuller flavor, you can get it in People's Choice Beef. Or, if you prefer Lean Tender succulent Baby Beef which is more mature than Veal, but not fully matured beef, you can get that too.
